Contributors

Richard Arena is Professor of Economics at the University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis. He teaches and publishes articles in history of economic thought, industrial organization, theory of the firm, business cycle theory, monetary economics and economics of knowledge. He edited Etudes d’Economie Classique et Neo-Ricardienne (Paris, 1982), Monnaie Production et Circulation in collaboration with A. Graziani and I. Kregel (Paris, 1985), Sraffa Trente Ans Après in collaboration with J.L. Ravix (Paris, 1990), Keynes et les Keynésiens in collaboration with D. Torre (Paris, 1994), Markets and Organizations in collaboration with C. Longhi (Springer Verlag, 1998); and special issues of Economia (on the history of industrial organization in 1991) and History of Economic Ideas (on knowledge and subjectivism in Hayek’s economics in 2000). He was one of the founders of the European Society of History of Economic Thought and he is Director of the French Research Network ‘History of Economic Thought and Economic Methodology’ (CNRS).

Riccardo Bellofiore is Professor of Economics at the University of Bergamo, Italy, where he teaches monetary economics, macroeconomics and history of economic thought. In English, he has edited Marxian Economics: A Reappraisal (Macmillan 1998) and Global Money, Capital Restructuring and the Changing Patterns of Labour (Edward Elgar, 1999), and has contributed to John Maynard Keynes: Language and Method, edited by A. Marzola and F. Silva (Edward Elgar, 1994). He has published in academic journals on Marxian value and monetary theory, the monetary aspects of the Schumpeterian system, Wicksell’s and Keynes’s circuit theory of money, Mises and Hayek on banking and the cycle, Sraffian price theory and economic epistemology.

Carl Chiarella holds a Ph.D. in applied mathematics (UNSW, 1970) and a Ph.D. in economics (UNSW, 1988). He has taught applied mathematics at the University of Technology, Sydney and finance and economics at the University of New South Wales and the University of Technology, Sydney where he is currently Professor of Finance. He has been a visiting scholar at the University of California, Berkeley, l’Université Catholique de Louvain, Tokyo Metropolitan University, l’Université du Québec à Montréal and the University of Bielefeld. He has publications in a number of journals in finance, economics and applied mathematics. He has written three books on his research in economic dynamics, one with Cambridge University Press and the other two with Springer-Verlag. His research interests cover many aspects of quantitative finance and economic dynamics.
Contributors

Domenico Delli Gatti is Professor of Economics at Catholic University in Milan, Italy, where he teaches macroeconomics and monetary economics. His main research fields are the history of monetary thought and the role of financial factors in business fluctuations. He has written a book, in Italian, on the evolution of Keynes’s monetary theory from the Treatise to the General Theory. He has published in Italian and international academic journals papers on Minsky’s theory of financial fragility and instability, the new Keynesian macroeconomics and especially the theory of financial fragility in new Keynesian macro models, non-linear models of the business cycle, and the role of monetary policy as a stabilizing tool. He is associate editor of the Journal of Economic Behaviour and Organization.

Piero Ferri is Professor of Economics at the University of Bergamo, Italy, where he served as a Rector for 15 years. A D.Phil. at the University of Oxford under the supervision of John Hicks, he is an expert on macroeconomics and the labour market. He has published articles on these subjects in both international journals and books. Among them Wages, Regime Switching and Cycles (Springer-Verlag, 1992) with E. Greenberg. Personal friend of Hyman Minsky, he has co-authored with him and with members of Washington University. He has also edited books on international aspects (such as the North–South problems and the European Union) for Macmillan and North-Holland.

Peter Flaschel is Professor of Economics at the University of Bielefeld, Germany, where he teaches macro- and microdynamics of closed and open economies with applications to structural macroeconometric model building. He is one of the editors of the series on ‘Dynamic Economic Theory’ (Lang Verlag) with contributions by Goodwin, Okishio, Peter Skott and others. He has published in a variety of academic journals, in particular on Marxian value theory (Econometrica), integrated macrodynamics (MIT Press, CUP, JEDC, JEBO, Metroeconomica), microdynamics (SCED, AOR, The Manchester School), Sraffian price theory (JITE, Australian Economic Papers), and input–output analysis (Economics of Planning, Resources and Energy).
Contributors

Mauro Gallegati is Professor of Economics at the University of Teramo, Italy, where he teaches macroeconomics. In English, he is the editor of Beyond the Representative Agent (Edward Elgar, 1999), and Market Structure and Interactions (Springer, 2000). He is also author of Fluttuazioni Economiche in Italia (Giappichelli, 1998). He has published extensively in academic journals on business cycles, financial fragility, non-linearities and history of economic thought.

Edward Greenberg is Professor of Economics at Washington University in St Louis, Missouri, USA, where he teaches econometrics and microeconomics. He is a co-author of Wages, Regime Switching, and Cycles, Regulation, Market Prices and Process Innovation and Advanced Econometrics. He has published in academic journals in the areas of television regulation, finance, heteroscedasticity, macroeconomic dynamics, the ARMA(\(p,q\)) model, cluster count-data models, and applications of the Markov chain Monte Carlo method to problems in econometrics.

Marc Lavoie is Professor of Economics at the University of Ottawa. He has published two books on the economics of ice hockey and two graduate textbooks on post-Keynesian economics, the latest being Foundations of Post-Keynesian Economic Analysis (Edward Elgar, 1992). He was also the co-editor of a book on the works of Milton Friedman (with M. Seccareccia) and he was an associate editor of the Encyclopaedia of Political Economy (Routledge, 1999). He has also published nearly one hundred articles in refereed journals and edited volumes. Lavoie is in search of coherent features between the various heterodox schools, especially in the fields of pricing, money, employment and growth. He has also been a visiting professor at the universities of Bordeaux, Nice, Rennes, Dijon and Grenoble, as well as Curtin University in Perth (Australia).
Contributors

Mario Seccareccia is Professor of Economics at the University of Ottawa, Canada, as well as lecturer in economics at the Labour College of Canada. He is the author of numerous journal articles and chapters of books in the areas of monetary economics, history of economic thought and labour economics, and is co-editor, among others, of Vers le plein emploi (with P. Paquette, Presses de l’Université de Montréal, 1998), Les pièges de l’austérité (with P. Paquette, Presses Universitaires de Grenoble et Presses de l’Université de Montréal, 1993), and Milton Friedman et son oeuvre (with M. Lavoie, Presses de l’Université de Montréal, 1993).

Contributors