

Contents

---

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
List of boxes	xi
Preface	xii
1 Basic concepts and methods of natural resource and environmental accounting	1
Glenn-Marie Lange, Rashid Hassan and Kirk Hamilton
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Economic dependence on natural resources in southern Africa	4
1.3 Resource rent and sustainable management of resources	6
1.4 Structure of environmental accounts	10
1.5 Indicators of sustainability: genuine savings	19
1.6 Plan of the book	21
2 Mineral accounts: managing an exhaustible resource	25
Glenn-Marie Lange and Rashid Hassan
2.1 Introduction	25
2.2 Methodology and data sources	32
2.3 Mineral accounts and resource rent from mining	39
2.4 Policy implications for resource management	50
2.5 Conclusions	55
Appendix A: Detailed mineral accounts	60
3 Forestry accounts: capturing the value of forest and woodland resources	70
Rashid Hassan
3.1 Introduction	70
3.2 Accounting for flow benefits of forest and woodland resources	71
3.3 Asset values and depreciation of forest and woodland resources	80
3.4 Revising national accounts for the contribution of forest and woodland resources	93
3.5 Conclusions and policy implications	95
Appendix B: Detailed forest accounts for South Africa	100

4	Fisheries accounts: management of a recovering fishery Glenn-Marie Lange	111
4.1	Introduction	111
4.2	Namibia's fisheries policy	117
4.3	Methodology and data sources	122
4.4	Physical and monetary accounts for fish	130
4.5	Policy implications for fisheries resource management	137
4.6	Conclusions	146
5	Water accounts: an economic perspective on managing water scarcity Glenn-Marie Lange, Rashid Hassan and Moortaza Jiwanji	153
5.1	Introduction	153
5.2	Water policy in Botswana, Namibia and South Africa	156
5.3	Methodology and data	161
5.4	Physical and monetary accounts for water	175
5.5	Policy implications	185
	Appendix C: Detailed water accounts for Botswana, Namibia and South Africa	190
6	Managing natural capital and national wealth Kirk Hamilton and Glenn-Marie Lange	203
6.1	Introduction	203
6.2	The role of natural resources in development	203
6.3	Wealth, welfare and sustainability	205
6.4	Empirical estimates of national wealth including natural capital	207
6.5	The policy challenge for resource-abundant economies	215
	Index	219