

Contributors

David Blake, Birkbeck College London, UK

Giuliano Bonoli, Universities of Berne and Fribourg, Switzerland

Bernard H. Casey, London School of Economics, UK

Agnieszka Chłoń-Domińczak, Gdansk Institute for Market Economics,
Poland

Barry L. Friedman, Brandeis University, US

Leny H. van der Heiden-Aantjes, Ministry of Social Affairs and Employment, The Netherlands

Yukiko M. Katsumata, National Institute of Population and Social Security Research, Japan

Katharina Müller, German Development Institute, Bonn

Edward Palmer, University of Uppsala and Swedish National Social Insurance Board, Sweden

Martin Rein, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, US

Michał Rutkowski, The World Bank and Warsaw School of Economics,
Poland

Winfried Schmähl, University of Bremen, Germany

Heinz Stapf-Finé, German Trade Union Association (Deutscher Gewerkschaftsbund)

Júlia Szalai, Academy of Science, Hungary

John Turner, Public Policy Institute, AARP, US

Eskil Wadensjö, Swedish Institute for Social Research, Stockholm University, Sweden

R. Kent Weaver, Georgetown University and The Brookings Institution, US

Peter Whiteford, OECD and Department of Family and Community Services, Australia

Atsuhiko Yamada, Keio University, Japan

