The authors

Peter Karl Kresl has been Professor of Economics and International Relations at Bucknell University (USA) since 1969. His teaching and research interests are in European and North American economic integration, urban economics and globalization, and cultural policy. He has published, among others, in Urban Studies, The Journal of European Integration, The American Review of Canadian Studies and Ekistics. He authored Urban Economies and Regional Trade Liberalization in 1994 and co-authored, with Sylvain Gallais, France Encounters Globalization, which was published by Edward Elgar in 2002. He has edited Seen from the South, Brigham Young University, 1989, and co-edited, with Gary Gappert, North American Cities and the Global Economy, Urban Affairs Annual Review 44, Sage Publications, 1995.

Earl H. Fry is Professor of Political Science and Endowed Professor of Canadian Studies at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. He is the author or editor of: Mapping Globalization Along the Wasatch Front (2002), The North American West in a Global Economy (2000), The Expanding Role of State and Local Governments in US Foreign Affairs (1998), and The New International Cities Era: The Global Activities of North American Municipalities (1989). He has served as a Fulbright Professor in France and Canada and was also a Special Assistant in the Office of the US Trade Representative (USTR).