Acknowledgements

Many individuals and academic institutions have played an important role in the realization of this volume. The conference where these chapters were first discussed was organized by Yvonne ter Horst, research assistant at the Research Unit for Biotechnology & Regulation Amsterdam (RUBRA), based at the Centre for Environmental Law, University of Amsterdam. Yvonne also carried out much of the editing work that was involved in the production of this book. I also wish to express my gratitude to Rose Dammen for her assistance. Annemarie Sprokkereef lent practical assistance during the conference, and finalized the chapters for publication. Stefan Dimitrov, researcher at RUBRA, has remained patient and loyal during all these hectic months, and provided practical and moral support where needed.

RUBRA has been established to carry out a multi-annual interdisciplinary research project generously financed by the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO), of which the present volume forms part.

The European University Institute in Florence granted a Jean Monnet fellowship that assisted the completion of the book. Special thanks are owed to Francesco Francioni, Christian Joerges and Neil Walker for their time and general support.

I also wish to thank my colleagues Bert-Jaap Koops and Corien Prins of Tilburg Institute for Law, Technology and Society (TILT), for their enthusiasm and help during my first months there. Finally and most importantly, I am very grateful to the authors for producing these stimulating and thought-provoking chapters.
