Figures

4.1 Comparison of gross earnings and net disposable income per month after taxes, benefits and housing costs, couple plus two children, two earners on average and half average earnings. Euro purchasing power parities per month, January 2004 72

4.2 Structure of the child benefit package, lone parent plus one child under three, one earner on half average earnings. Euro purchasing power parities per month, January 2004 73

4.3 Structure of the child benefit package, couple plus two children, one earner on average earnings. Euro purchasing power parities per month, January 2004 73

4.4 Structure of the child benefit package, couple plus one child, two earners both on average earnings. Euro purchasing power parities per month, January 2004 74

4.5 Child benefit package by earnings (euro ppps per month) after taxes, benefits and housing costs, couple plus two children, January 2004 75

4.6 Child benefit package by number of children (childless couple = 100), after taxes, benefits and housing benefits 76

4.7 Child benefit package by family type, one earner on average earnings, after taxes, benefits and housing costs. Euro ppps per month, January 2004 77

4.8 Net costs of full-time childcare. Euro ppps per month, January 2004 77

4.9 Marginal tax rates on moving from half average earnings to average earnings 78

4.10 Marginal tax rates for couples, moving from one earner on average earnings to two earners, one on average earnings and one on half average 79

4.11 The level of out of work social assistance per month in ppps 80

4.12 Replacement rates at half average earnings (NDI after all) 81

4.13 Overall ‘average’ child benefit package after taxes, benefits, childcare and housing costs (difference from childless couple). Euro ppps per month, January 2004 81
4.14 Overall ‘average’ child benefit package after taxes, benefits, childcare and housing costs (difference from childless couple). % average earnings, January 2004 82
4.15 Marginal tax rate on mother working and mothers’ employment rates 84
4.16 Total fertility rate and average value of the child benefit package 85
4.17 Child poverty rate and child benefit package 86
4.18 Child poverty rate and child benefit package for low-income families 87
5.1 Expenditure on families and children as percentages of the total social expenditure in the Nordic countries, Germany, the Netherlands and United Kingdom, 1992–2001 91
7.1 Trends of change in unpaid care work 139
12.1 Flexibility – the economic and social agendas 244
13.1 What hours men and women would choose with pay rises for more hours and pay reductions for reduced hours (in selected European countries, ages 25–45) 278
13.2 Fathers’ share of all parental leave days 281
13.3 Fathers’ use of parental leave up to their child’s fourth birthday 282
13.4 Expected use of parental leave at father’s workplace considering the proportion of men who had taken some leave 286