

Contributors

Bob Baulch is Coordinator of the Chronic Poverty Research Centre's theme on Poverty Dynamics and Economic Mobility, Research Fellow with the Social Development Research Initiative and Lead Economist for the Prosperity Initiative. He is currently based in Hanoi, Vietnam.

Saurav Dev Bhatta is Senior Education Specialist with the World Bank in Katmandu, Nepal. From 2007–2009, he was the Education Director for Saajhaa Shiksha E-Paati (Open Learning Exchange Nepal), a non-governmental organization implementing the One Laptop per Child concept in Nepal. Until 2007, he was Assistant Professor in the Urban Planning and Policy Program at the University of Illinois, Chicago.

Stefan Dercon is Professor of Development Economics at the University of Oxford, Fellow of Wolfson College, University of Oxford, and Senior Research Fellow with the Bureau for Research in Economic Analysis and Development. He is also associated with the Centre for the Study of African Economies, Oxford and the Centre for Economic Policy Research.

Hari Ram Lohano is an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Business Administration, Karachi, Pakistan. He was previously a lecturer in economics at the University of Sindh, Hyderabad, and an economist for the Social Policy and Development Centre, Karachi. His research focuses on agricultural shocks, poverty and rural livelihoods in Pakistan.

Julian May is Professor of Development Studies at the University of KwaZulu-Natal in South Africa. He was Principal Investigator of the KwaZulu-Natal Income Dynamics Study (KIDS).

Catherine Porter is a British Academy Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Economics at the University of Oxford. Her research focuses on chronic poverty measurement and applied investigations into the consequences of risk and poverty on household and individual well-being, both in the short and longer term. Her research focuses mainly on Ethiopia.

Agnes R. Quisumbing is a Senior Research Fellow in the Poverty, Health and Nutrition Division of the International Food Policy Research Institute in Washington DC, working on poverty, gender, and economic mobility. She co-leads a research programme on factors that enable individuals, households and communities to move out of poverty and has just begun a new research programme on gender and assets.

Suman K. Sharma is currently a Research Scholar and Lecturer in the Division of Economics at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. Until 2008, she was an Associate Professor at Tribhuvan University in Kathmandu, Nepal and a consultant to various development organisations. Her current research areas include poverty, social protection and the socio-economic dimensions of disasters in the Asian context.

Vu Hoang Dat is a Researcher, Centre of Analysis and Forecasting, Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences, Hanoi.

Ingrid Woolard is Associate Professor in the School of Economics at the University of Cape Town, and Co-Principal Investigator of the National Income Dynamics Survey in South Africa.