

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
1 Introduction: the reform and opening-up of a large, developing country	1
2 Political and social foundations of economic development	26
3 Urban and rural economic development during the process of urbanization and industrialization	62
4 Industrial agglomeration in the process of globalization and regional economic development	95
5 Transitions of public services and government responsibilities during the marketization process	125
6 Developmental imbalances and mechanisms for improving the market system	156
7 Appropriate institutions and sustainable growth: China's development and its worldwide significance	190
References	207
Index	223