

Acknowledgements

This work builds on my doctorate thesis completed at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy. I owe thanks to many people who helped me with this book. I would like to name a few of them in particular.

I am grateful to Professor Fabrizio Cafaggi for his guidance on this research. I am also thankful for the most useful comments from Professor Hanns Ullrich, Professor Pierre Larouche and Professor Wolfgang Kerber. It is an honour to have received an endorsement for this book from Professors Daniel Rubinfeld and Jonathan Faull. I also benefited from the stimulating discussions at Tilburg University's TILEC group. I owe thanks to Professor Joseph McCahery for his help at the early stages of my research. I would like to thank also for the support of my colleagues at the European Commission, particularly Werner Stengg, Kamil Kiljanski, Emiliano Tornese, Larisa Dragomir and Tim Shakesby, both in terms of insights on the subject matter and in terms of encouragement. All remaining errors are mine.

The general disclaimer applies that the views expressed in this book are those of the author and cannot be attributed to the European Commission.
