I wish to thank a number of people and organizations. My grateful thanks to Sussex Law School and Salford Law School for awarding me research grants and scholarships that enabled me to go to conferences while finishing this book. Special thanks are due to Prof. Andrew Key and Prof. David Milman for their continuing support, stimulating suggestions and encouragement in helping me to write this book. Prof. Heather Keating and Prof. Craig Barker from Sussex Law School and Prof. Mark James from Salford Law School (now at Northumbria School of Law) have also provided immense support and inspiration, for which I am hugely indebted.

I am also grateful to several publishers for allowing me to draw on material from my previously published articles. With the permission of the named publishers, I used material from the following articles: 'The Harmonious Society, Corporate Social Responsibility and Legal Responses to Ethical Norms in Chinese Company Law' (2012) 12 Journal of Corporate Law Studies 163 (Hart Publishing); 'Promoting Stakeholders' Interests in the Unique Chinese Corporate Governance Model: More Socially Responsible Corporations?' (2010) International Company and Commercial Law Review 373 (Sweet & Maxwell); 'The Regulation and Steering of Corporate Social Responsibility in China: Stories after the Enforcement of Chinese Company Law 2006' (2011) 22 International Company and Commercial Law Review 400 (Sweet & Maxwell).

I would also like to express my sincere gratitude to my friends and colleagues Shuangge Wen, Wangwei Lin, Verona Ni Dhrisceoil, John Tribe, Phoebe Li, Zhong Zhang, Carlo Petrucci, Andrea Gilluley, Sue Biell, Debra Morris, Donald Loftus, Qingsong Mou and Mitchell O'Grady, and to my proofreader Louise Maskill for her excellent and efficient work. Special thanks are also due to my publisher, and to all the reviewers for their helpful comments and suggestions.

Finally, as always, I am extremely thankful to my parents Guoqing Li and Gang Zhao and my brother Rongchen Zhao for their encouragement, understanding and support.
