ABOUT THE EDITORS

Hans Bruyninckx is Director of the HIVA Research Institute for Work and Society, Professor of Global Environmental Governance and Senior Member of the Leuven Centre for Global Governance Studies at the University of Leuven, Belgium. His research emphasizes the influence of the various globalization processes on the global governance of environmental problems and sustainable development. His research also focuses on the specific role of the European Union and Asia in global environmental and climate governance. The translation and testing of innovative and critical social theories (such as network and flows perspectives) to multilevel governance arrangements of global environmental and sustainable development issues are at the core of his research efforts. Professor Bruyninckx obtained a PhD in Political Sciences in 1996 at Colorado State University, USA.

Qi Ye is Director of the Climate Policy Initiative and Professor of Environmental Policy at the School of Public Policy and Management, Tsinghua University, Beijing, China. His research areas include climate and environmental governance, climate change impacts on ecosystems and biodiversity, sustainable development and ecosystem management. Previously, he was Cheung Kong Professor of Environmental Science at Beijing Normal University and Lecturer at the University of California, Berkeley, USA. Professor Qi also serves as a consultant and adviser to governments and international organizations, including the US Departments of Energy and Agriculture, the Ministry of Science and Technology of China, China’s National Development and Reform Commission, the World Bank and the European Commission’s DG Climate Action. He received his PhD in Environmental Science in 1994 at the State University of New York, USA.

Nguyen Quang Thuan is Vice-President of the Vietnamese Academy of Social Sciences and Professor of Economics at the Institute for European Studies at the Vietnamese Academy of Social Sciences, Hanoi, Vietnam.
