
Acknowledgments

This project has been nurtured and supported by the Wheatley Institution at Brigham Young University. We would like to thank the various members of the Institution: Jack Wheatley, founder; Richard Williams, Director; Emily Reynolds, Coordinator of Projects; and members of the Board of Overseers for their enthusiasm, financial support, and faith in our efforts. We couldn't have done it without you.

We would also like to thank Dr Jan Lipson and the Lipson Family Fund at the Silicon Valley Community Foundation for its early support of this project while Dr Agle was a professor at the University of Pittsburgh. We appreciate Jan Lipson, Fund Creator; and John Delaney, Dean of the Katz Graduate School of Business at the University of Pittsburgh, for their faith and financial support.

We are also grateful for the support of the Marriott School of Management at Brigham Young University. Dean Gary Cornia has been an enthusiastic supporter of our efforts throughout the project.

Because this project evolved over several years, we have many research assistants to thank. First is Ty Crossley, who helped get the project off the ground at the University of Pittsburgh. Students at BYU included Ryan Davies, Stephen Hernandez, and Chase Bradshaw.

Several Visiting Wheatley Fellows also helped us. We appreciate the contributions of professors Gary Weaver from the University of Delaware, Scott Reynolds from the University of Washington, Jared Harris from the University of Virginia, and Brad Owens from the University of Buffalo (who has since joined the faculty at BYU).