

Acknowledgements

These events (the workshop and subsequent book) and their outputs have required significant effort from a wide range of people. First the editors would like to thank Professor Peter Høj for opening the 2012 workshop. The editors would then like to thank the invited discussants at the workshop as their comments both during and after provided a valuable source of information for the contributors:

- Dr Anke Leroux (Monash University)
- Dr Tiffany Morrison (The University of Queensland)
- Dr Ian MacKenzie (The University of Queensland)
- Professor Malcolm Wegner (The University of Queensland)

The editors and the authors would like to directly acknowledge the hard work, help and support of the following people in getting this publication completed:

- Chapter 1, Veronica Webster from The Australian National University
- Chapter 2, Conrad Buffier and Jeewantha Karunaratna, from the Department of Industry, Innovation, Climate Change, Science, Research and Tertiary Education
- Chapter 3, Dana Nuccitelli from Tetra Tech, Incorporated, McClellan, California, US
- Chapter 8, Sandra Eady, Brian Keating, Andrew Reeson and Cathy Robinson from the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation
- Chapter 9, Helal Ahammad, Dale Ashton, Peter Gooday and Paul Morris from the Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Sciences.

We would also like to thank the following workshop sponsors, as without their generous financial support, none of this would have been possible:

- Australian Agricultural and Resource Economics Society (AARES)

- Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Sciences (ABARES)
- Australian Research Council (ARC)
- Department of Industry, Innovation, Climate Change, Science, Research and Tertiary Education (DIICCSRTE)
- School of Economics, The University of Queensland.

The editors would like to make a special mention to the Head of the School of Economics at The University of Queensland, Professor Flavio Menezes, for providing administrative support from both the marketing office (especially Marnie Snow) and the finance section (especially Bev Forrest and Tanya-Louise Mitchell).

Last, but not least, thanks go to the wonderful publishing team at Edward Elgar for helping us throughout the process.
