

Contributors

Vella Atienza is an Assistant Professor at the Institute for Governance and Rural Development (IGRD), College of Public Affairs and Development, University of the Philippines (UP), Los Banos, Laguna, Philippines. She previously worked as a Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies, JETRO, Japan from April 2009 to March 2012. Her research focuses on environmental governance in waste management in the Philippines and other Asian countries. She obtained a PhD in Asia Pacific Studies from the Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University, Beppu, Japan, and a Master of Management and Bachelor of Science in Forestry, both from UP Los Banos. She has authored and edited various publications related to waste management and recycling, forestry, and the environment.

Sungwoo Chung is a Chief Researcher at the Hanwha Life Economic Institute of Korea. He has researched Korean environmental policy including the circulation of recyclable resources. He received a PhD from Hokkaido University, Japan. He worked as a Researcher at the Institute of Developing Economies and Senior Researcher at the Embassy of the Republic of Korea in Japan. He is the co-author of “A study of the WEEE (waste of electrical and electronic equipment)” (in Japanese) (Journal of the Japan Society of Waste Management Experts 19 (4), 2008, 235–43).

Michikazu Kojima is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO). He has studied environmental issues in Indonesia and recycling in the Asian region. He received an MSc from the University of California, Berkeley, in Agricultural and Resource Economics. He is the editor of International Trade of Recyclable Resources in Asia (Chiba: Institute of Developing Economies, 2005) and Promoting 3Rs in Developing Countries: Lessons from the Japanese Experience (Chiba, Institute of Developing Economies, 2008).

Etsuyo Michida is an Associate Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies, JETRO. She earned a PhD in Economics from Kobe University. Her work area is the environment and trade, including recyclables trade and cross-border chemicals management. Her major work is “North–South trade and industry-specific pollutants,” Journal of Environmental Economics and Management, 54, 229–43.

Shozo Sakata is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies, JETRO, Japan. He has worked on broad issues relating to socio-economic development in Vietnam. His research topics range from rural development, environmental, and labour issues to the development of local enterprises in Vietnam. He is the editor of Actors for Poverty Reduction in Vietnam (Institute of Developing Economies, 2006) and Vietnam's Economic Entities in Transition (Palgrave Macmillan, 2013).

So Sasaki is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Economics, Chuo University. He has studied waste management and recycling policy in Thailand and environmental business in the Asian region. He received a PhD from Hokkaido University in Environmental Economics. He is the co-author of “Difficulties in applying extended producer responsibility policies in developing countries: case studies in e-waste recycling in China and Thailand,” Journal of Material Cycles and Waste Management, 11 (3), 2009, 263–9.

Tadayoshi Terao is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies, JETRO. He received his Master's degree in Agricultural Economics from the University of Tokyo. He has studied industrial pollution, environmental policies, social movement, and agricultural policies in East and South Asia. He authored “An institutional analysis of environmental pollution disputes in Taiwan, cases of ‘self-relief’” (The Developing Economies, XL (3), 2002), and co-edited the book Development of Environmental Policy in Japan and Asian Countries (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007).

Jun Tsuruta is an Associate Professor of International Law and Maritime Environmental Law at the Japan Coast Guard Academy, Hiroshima, Japan. He earned a Master's degree in Law (International Law) from the Graduate School of Law and Politics, the University of Tokyo. He has published many articles on the law of treaties, international law of the sea, and international environmental law, in Japanese and English. His recent works in English include “Japanese measures against marine pollution under UNCLOS and the IMO treaties,” Journal of East Asia and International Law, 2 (2), 2009, and “The Japanese Act on the Punishment of and Measures against Piracy,” The Aegean Review of the Law of the Sea and Maritime Law, 1 (2), 2011.

Aya Yoshida is a Senior Researcher at the National Institute for Environmental Studies. She received a PhD from the Department of Urban Engineering at the University of Tokyo in 2006. She is author of “China: the world’s largest recyclable waste importer,” Chapter 3 in International Trade of Recyclable Resources in Asia (Chiba: Institute of Developing Economies, 2005).

