Contributors

Aneesh Banerjee is a doctoral researcher at the Cass Business School, London. His research investigates the triggers of qualitatively superior innovations in organizations.

Stewart Clegg is Research Professor at the University of Technology, Sydney, and Director of the Centre for Management and Organisation Studies Research, and a Visiting Professor at Nova School of Business and Economics. His research is driven by a fascination with power and theorizing.

Larry W. Cox is Associate Professor of Entrepreneurship at Pepperdine University in the United States. He holds a PhD in Strategic Management from the University of Nebraska. His publications appear in the Journal of Enterprising Culture, Journal of International Business and Entrepreneurship, and Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Change.

Miguel Pina e Cunha is Professor of Organization Studies at Nova School of Business and Economics, Portugal. His research interests include: process-based views of organizations; the paradoxes of organizing; virtuous and toxic leadership; and the unfolding of positive and genocidal forms of organization.

Israel Drori (PhD, UCLA) is Professor of Management, School of Business, College of Management, Academic Studies, Israel and Visiting Professor, Recanatti School of Management, Tel Aviv University. His research interests include organizational ethnography, evolution of industries and transnational and high-tech entrepreneurship. He has published seven books and in journals such as: American Sociological Review, Organization Science and Organizational Studies, among others.

Gregory Gorse holds an MBA in Sustainability from Duquesne University, and a BBA in Marketing from the University of North Texas, USA. His team won third place in the 2013 Aspen Institute MBA Case Competition. His publication appears in the Handbook of Research on Organizational Ingenuity and Creative Institutional Entrepreneurship.

Peter Groenewegen is Professor of Organization Sciences at the Department of Organization Sciences, Faculty of Social Sciences, VU University Amsterdam. His research concerns the networked character of organizing. and entrepreneurship taking place in emergency management organizations, health care and online communities.

Benson Honig (PhD, Stanford University) is the Teresa Cascioli Chair in Entrepreneurial Leadership, DeGroote School of Business, McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. Studying entrepreneurship worldwide (including environments of transition), his research includes organizational theory, ethics in scholarship, social capital, social entrepreneurship, business planning, nascent entrepreneurship and transnational entrepreneurship.

Jochen Koch is a Professor of Management and Organization at the European University Viadrina, Frankfurt/Oder, Germany. He received his doctorate from the Freie Universität Berlin. His current research interests include modern and postmodern organization theory, organizational routines and practices, strategic management and creativity, and the theory of organizational and strategic path dependence.

Janne M. Korhonen (MSc in Engineering from Helsinki University of Technology) is with the Aalto University School of Business, Department of Management and International Business, Helsinki, Finland. He is a PhD student studying the interplay of constraints and technological evolution.

Joseph Lampel is Professor of Strategy and Innovation at Cass Business School, City University London. He is the co-author and co-editor of five books, and more than 50 scholarly and practitioner articles. His main areas of research are strategy in creative industries, innovation processes, and management of project-based organizations.

Sandra R.H. Mariano is Associate Professor at Universidade Federal Fluminense, Brazil. She holds a PhD in Systems and Computer Engineering from Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro. She published two books in the area of entrepreneurship and articles in academic journals such as Espacios (Caracas) and RAUSP.

Francesca Masciarelli is Assistant Professor at the University G. d'Annunzio (Italy). She received her doctorate from the University of Trento. Her research interests include social capital, strategy and management of innovation and international business, with particular emphasis on the implications of social capital on firms’ competitiveness.

Judy Matthews is a Senior Lecturer in the QUT Business School, Australia, engaged in researching and teaching innovation, creative problem solving and design thinking to senior managers and executives. Judy investigates innovation management, entrepreneurial strategies and organizational strategic renewal, presenting and publishing widely on design thinking and design led innovation.

David T. Methé is a Full Professor at the Institute of Business and Accounting, Kwansei Gakuin University, Kobe, Japan. His research focuses on innovation in organizations. He has held faculty positions at Sophia University in Tokyo, Japan, Kobe University’s Research Institute for Business and Economics (RIEB) and at the University of Michigan Ross Business School.

Joysi Moraes is Adjunct Professor at Universidade Federal Fluminense, Brazil. She holds a PhD in Management from Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Sul. Her publications appear in Ephemera: Theory and Politics in Organization, Organizacoes e Sociedade, Cadernos EBAPE (FGV), Revista de Administracao FACES Journal, and Espacios.

Pedro Neves is Assistant Professor at Nova School of Business and Economics, Portugal. His research has been published in journals such as the Journal of Applied Psychology, The Leadership Quarterly, Human Performance and Group & Organization Management. His research interests include leadership and interpersonal relationships in the workplace, entrepreneurship, improvisation/risk taking, and change management.

Pedro Oliveira is an Associate Professor at Católica Lisbon School of Business and Economics. His research focuses on innovation and technology management, and particularly on the role of users in developing new services. His research has appeared in Research Policy, Production and Operations Management, Journal of Product Innovation Management, Organizational Research Methods, and International Journal of Operations and Production Management, among others.

Andrea Prencipe (PhD, SPRU, University of Sussex) is a Professor of Economics and Management Innovation at LUISS Guido Carli University (Italy). His research interests include: division and coordination of knowledge and labour; routines in project-based contexts; and the relationships between social capital and innovation.

Arménio Rego is Associate Professor at the Universidade de Aveiro, Portugal. He has published in journals such as Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Business Research, Journal of Occupational Health Psychology, and The Leadership Quarterly. His research deals mainly with positive organizational scholarship.

Wasko Rothmann is a post-doctoral research assistant at the European University Viadrina, Frankfurt/Oder, Germany. His current research interests include creativity in strategic management, organizational and strategic change, entrepreneurship and innovation processes.

Tamar Sagiv is a Lecturer of Organizational Behavior at the Recanati Graduate School of Business Administration at Tel Aviv University. Her current research projects include studies on knowledge evolution in various industries; creativity and authenticity in economic transactions; innovation and entrepreneurship in creative industries; and the effect of the interplay between individual agents and institutional mechanisms on the formation of new organizational forms.

Ninja Natalie Senf is a doctoral research assistant at the European University Viadrina, Frankfurt/Oder, Germany. Her current research interests include organizational aspiration level, strategic reference points, performance feedback, creativity, as well as feelings and measures of success.

John G. Shearer is Practitioner Faculty of Entrepreneurship at Pepperdine University in the United States. He holds an MBA from the University of Colorado. He is an award-winning inventor and serial entrepreneur. He holds multiple patents and received the 2008 Carnegie Science Award for Start-Up Entrepreneur.

Ana Cristina O. Siqueira is Assistant Professor of Management at Duquesne University, United States. She holds a PhD in Management from the University of Cambridge. Her articles appear in the International Journal of Innovation Management, Academy of Management Best Paper Proceedings, Technology Analysis and Strategic Management, and IEEE Transactions on Engineering Management.

A.M.C. Eveline Stam is a PhD candidate at the Department of Organization Sciences, Faculty of Social Sciences and lecturer at the Amsterdam Centre for Entrepreneurship, Faculty of Economics and Business Administration, both at the VU University Amsterdam. Her research focuses on entrepreneurship, network dynamics and new venture legitimation in Dutch health care.

Ingrid A.M. Wakkee is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Social Sciences, and Business Developer at the Technology Transfer Office both at the VU University, Amsterdam. Her research focuses on the entrepreneurial process, failure and recovery, the role of social networks in entrepreneurship as well as university–industry collaboration.

David B. Zoogah is currently Associate Professor of Management in the Earl Graves School of Business and Management at Morgan State University, Baltimore, Maryland, USA. His research interests centre on micro issues (OB, HRM, Psychology) related to environmental management, Employee Development and Training, Team Effectiveness, Alliance Management.