Bibliography

Bajaj, V. and J. Yardley (2012), ‘Scandal poses a riddle: will India ever be able to tackle corruption?’, New York Times, 15 September.

New developments in economic education

Boettke, P.J. (1993), ‘The collapse of communism in the USSR: cold war victory or cold war illusions?’, in J.E. Payne and A.P. Sahu (eds),

New developments in economic education

New developments in economic education

De Mesquita, B.B. (2001), The Trial of Ebeneezer Scrooge, Columbus, OH, USA: Ohio State University Press.

Bibliography

Dynan L. and T. Cate (2008), ‘The impact of writing assignments on student learning: should writing assignments be structured or unstructured?’, International Review of Economics Education, 8(1), 64–86.

New developments in economic education

Hamermesh, D.S. and J. Abrevaya (2012), ‘Beauty is the promise of happiness?’, Unpublished manuscript.

New developments in economic education

New developments in economic education

McMillin, W.D. (2003), ‘Is the economics major dying and, if so, will changes in teaching technology and course content save it?’, Southern Economic Journal, 70(1), 206–9.

Murphy, J.J. (2004), ‘A simple program to conduct a hand-run double auction in the classroom’, Journal of Economic Education, 35(2), 212.

New developments in economic education

Stinson, T.A. and X. Zhao (2008), ‘Unmet expectations: why is there such a difference between student expectations and classroom performance?’, Journal of College Teaching and Learning, 5(7), 33–42.
New developments in economic education

Bibliography

