Authors

Timothy Cadman BA (Hons) MA (Cantab) PhD (Tasmania) is a Research Fellow in the Institute for Ethics, Governance and Law at Griffith University, Queensland, Australia. He is also a Research Fellow in the international Earth Systems Governance Project and an Adjunct Lecturer and Member of the Australian Centre for Sustainable Business and Development at the University of Southern Queensland. He specialises in the governance of sustainable development, climate change, natural resource management including forestry, and responsible investment.

Lauren Eastwood BA (Rollins College) MA, PhD (Syracuse) is an Associate Professor at the State University of New York College, Plattsburgh. Her primary areas of research involve civil society engagement in policy-making processes related to environmental issues, including the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and the Convention on Biological Diversity. She has also been conducting research on civic engagement in, and resistance to, policies related to natural gas extraction and infrastructure. She was a Social Science Research Council Abe Fellow from 2009–2011.

Federico López-Casero Michaelis MA (Augsburg) PhD (Tokyo) is the Team Manager of the Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services Task at the Institute for Global Environmental Strategies, Hayama, Japan. He conducts strategic research on environmental policies for sustainable development in the Asia-Pacific Region with a focus on natural resource management and ecosystem services. He specialises in socio-ecological production landscapes, governance in the forest sector, biodiversity offsets, the verified legal and sustainable timber trade, and climate change mitigation and adaptation.

Tek Narayan Maraseni BSc (Tribhuvan) MSc (Asian Institute of Technology, Thailand) PhD (University of Southern Queensland) has over 20 years' work experience in the areas of climate change adaptation, mitigation, and greenhouse gas emissions accounting/modelling research in different countries including Nepal, Thailand and Australia and China. He has produced over 100 publications, including two books, in the last ten years. His research work has been recognised through several national and international awards, grants and fellowships.

Jamie Pittock BSc (Hons) (Monash) PhD (ANU) is an Associate Professor in the Fenner School of Environment and Society at The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia. He is also Director of International Programs for the UNESCO Chair in Water Economics and Transboundary Water Governance. He specialises in research on governance of the conflicts and positive synergies among the institutions for biodiversity, climate change, energy, food and water.

Tapan Sarker BSc (Hons) MA (Keio) PhD (ANU) is Discipline Leader of Sustainable Enterprise at Griffith University Business School. From 2011 to 2013, he was a Visiting Professor in International Management at the World Bank Program at Keio University in Japan. He is currently a Visiting Professor at Rajalakshmi School of Business, Chennai, India. Dr Sarker's main research interests include business strategy for sustainability, international political economy of resources, corporate social responsibility and governance, business ethics, and public sector management.