

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank the Department of Government, LSE (Head: Professor Simon Hix) for extending my stay at the LSE as Senior Visiting Fellow while this book was being written. Professor Edward Page, Webb Professor of Public Policy (LSE), kindly commented on an early draft as did Dr Anneliese Dodds, Senior Lecturer in Public Policy, University of Aston. Professor Mark Thatcher, Professor of Comparative and International Politics (LSE), gave general advice and commented in detail on early drafts of Chapters 1, 2 and 3. Professor Martin Lodge, Director CARR (LSE), commented in particular on an early draft of Chapter 2, and Dr Julien Etienne, Postdoctoral Fellow CARR (LSE), commented in particular on social framing as a methodology. Professor Bridget Hutter (LSE) commented on an early draft of Chapter 7 on social norms. I discussed the general approach with Professor Colin Scott, Dean of Law and Professor of EU Regulation and Government (University College, Dublin), who gave his encouragement. I am also grateful for discussions with Max Watson, Visiting Fellow, St Anthony's College, Oxford, and to Dr Philip Boxer (Boxer Research Ltd). Dr Attila Szanto (LSE) has kindly checked the final draft and put it into finished form.