

Contributors

Henry Chang

Henry Chang is the Information Technology Advisor at the Office of the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data in Hong Kong. Henry advises the Privacy Commissioner and his office on privacy policies related to information and communications technologies, and monitors related ICT trends. He also advises on the investigation of complex cases that involve information systems. Henry's past experience includes being the head of spam regulation in Hong Kong's telecommunications authority and a regional information risk manager for a major investment bank.

Henry is a fellow of the British Computer Society. He holds degrees in Engineering Science, Informatics, Business Administration and Law. Dr Chang is an appointed technical expert in the IT Security Techniques subcommittee and Privacy Technologies working group of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and the Chair for the Technology Working Group of the Asia Pacific Privacy Authorities. He also holds certifications in privacy, IT security, ethical hacking and computer forensic investigation.

Alan Chiu

Alan Chiu is a partner in Hogan Lovells' IPMT. He has been qualified as a Hong Kong solicitor since 2004 and advises on a diversified range of contentious and commercial IP and IT matters in both Hong Kong and China, covering copyright, trademark, design, patent, trade secret, domain name, privacy, IP-related antitrust issues, manufacturing, sourcing and franchising, music and entertainment contracts as well as software and cloud agreements. Alan has substantive experience in IP litigation and has assisted a number of Fortune 500 companies, international multinational corporations and local blue chip companies to resolve their regional and cross-border IP and technology disputes. He also has a computer forensic background and advises on legal issues concerning computer security, IT compliance and Internet regulatory aspects. He is an accredited mediator of the Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, the Law Society of Hong Kong and the Hong Kong Mediation Accreditation Association and an affiliate member of the Information Security and Forensics Society. He currently serves as a member of the China Subcommittee of the International Trademark Association Anti-Counterfeiting Committee and the Technology Committee of the Law Society of Hong Kong. He has been appointed Adjunct Professor of Law by Hong Kong Shue Yan University.

K.P. Chow

K.P. Chow (University of California, Santa Barbara) is Associate Professor of the Department of Computer Science and Associate Director of the Center for Information Security and Cryptography (CISC) at the University of Hong Kong. Dr Chow's areas of research interest are computer forensics, cryptography, computer security, Internet surveillance and privacy. In the past few years, Dr Chow has been invited to be a computer forensic expert to assist the courts in Hong Kong.

Edward S. Dove

Edward Dove is a PhD student in the School of Law at the University of Edinburgh. Previously, he was Academic Associate at the Centre of Genomics and Policy at McGill University in Montreal, Quebec, Canada. He holds law degrees from McGill (BCL, LLB) and Columbia University (LLM). Edward's primary research interests are in the areas of privacy/data protection, data access and sharing, governance of international research collaboration, and socio-legal studies of genetic and genomics technologies. He is also a member of the International Cancer Genome Consortium's (ICGC) Working Group on Identifiability and Privacy.

Xiaoxi Fan

Xiaoxi Fan is a PhD research student in the Department of Computer Science at the University of Hong Kong. Her research interests include digital forensics, digital profiling and data mining. She is an affiliate member of the Information Security and Forensics Society, a local association that aims at advocating and enforcing professionalism, integrity and innovation in information security and computer forensics (www.isfs.org.hk).

Yann Joly

Yann Joly, PhD (DCL), Ad. E. is Lawyer Emeritus at the Bar of Quebec and the Research Director of the Centre of Genomics and Policy at McGill University. He is also an Associate Professor in the Department of Human Genetics as well as the Biomedical Ethics Unit at McGill University. His research activities lie at the interface of intellectual property, medical law, biotechnology and bioethics. Professor Joly is the Data Access Officer of the International Cancer Genome Consortium (ICGC). In 2012, he received the Quebec Bar Award of Merit for Innovation for his work on the right to privacy in the biomedical field.

Terry Sheung-Hung Kaan

Terry Sheung-Hung Kaan is Co-Director of the University of Hong Kong's Centre for Medical Ethics and Law, a joint centre of the HKU Faculty of Law and the HKU Li Ka Shing Faculty of Medicine. He is also an associate professor in the Department of Law. His teaching and research interests centre primarily on biomedical law, biomedical ethics, and the regulation of biomedical research.

Bartha M. Knoppers

Bartha Maria Knoppers, PhD (Comparative Medical Law) Sorbonne (Paris I), currently holds the Canada Research Chair in Law and Medicine (Tier 1: 2001). She is Director of the Centre of Genomics and Policy at McGill University. She holds four Doctorates Honoris Causa, is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Hastings Center (Bioethics) and of the Canadian Academy of Health Sciences (CAHS), and is an Officer of both the Order of Canada and of Quebec. She was admitted to the Bar of Quebec in 1985.

Joe Kong

Joe Kong has been a computer forensic examiner since 1999 and is currently a part-time MPhil student at the University of Hong Kong. His major research area is digital forensics. Since 2002, he has been a certified forensic computer examiner of the International Association of Computer Investigative Specialists, an international non-profit corporation composed of computer forensic professionals dedicated to fostering and perpetuating educational excellence in this field (www.iacis.com). In addition, he is a full member of the Information Security and Forensics Society, a local association that aims at advocating and enforcing professionalism, integrity and innovation in information security and computer forensics (www.isfs.org.hk).

Geoffrey Master

Geoffrey Master is a partner in Mayer Brown's Business & Technology Sourcing (BTS) practice. He has broad experience in the full range of technology service transactions, including IT outsourcing and cloud computing. He also regularly works with data privacy and data security issues. Geof has represented clients in a wide range of industries, from start-up enterprises to national and global firms and including governmental entities. He has worked with clients in all geographies.

Prior to joining Mayer Brown in 2001, Geof worked for over ten years for Electronic Data Systems Corporation in various senior legal capacities, including five years as international general counsel with responsibility for all legal support requirements of EDS' non-US business. He was also previously an adjunct professor in business planning at the University of Texas School of Law. He is admitted to practice law in Hong Kong, the District of Columbia, New York and Texas.

Jean-Philippe Moiny

Jean-Philippe Moiny graduated in Law (University of Liège, Belgium) in 2008. He worked in the Privacy Department of CRIDS (Research Centre for Information, Law and Society) (University of Namur, Belgium) as a researcher from 2008 to 2013. He studied data protection, privacy, contract law and private international law in the context of social network sites and cloud computing. He also examined the legal rules related to the access to and reuse of public sector information. From 2009 to 2013, he was appointed to the Commission on Access to and Reuse of Administrative Documents, Reuse Section (Belgium Federal Appeal Committee). And from 2010 to 2013, he was also involved as an expert, for the Council of Europe, notably in the modernization of Convention no. 108 (data protection). Recently in 2013, he joined the Digital Economy Law Service of the Belgian Ministry of Economy (Directorate-General for Economic Regulation).

Chris Reed

Chris Reed is Professor of Electronic Commerce Law at Queen Mary University of London. He is a member of the Centre for Commercial Law Studies (CCLS). He joined the Centre in 1987 and is responsible for the University of London LLM courses in Information Technology Law, Internet Law, Electronic Banking Law and Telecommunications Law. Chris has published widely on many aspects of computer law, and research in which he was involved led to the EU directives on electronic signatures and on electronic commerce. From 1997–2000, Chris was Joint Chairman of the Society for Computers and Law, and in 1997–98 he acted as Specialist Adviser to the House of Lords Select Committee on Science and Technology. Chris participated as an expert at the European Commission/Danish Government Copenhagen Hearing on Digital Signatures, represented the UK Government at the Hague Conference on Private International Law and has been an invited speaker at OECD and G8 international conferences. He is a former director of CCLS, and from 2004–09 was Academic Dean of the Faculty of Law and Social Sciences.

Dominic N. Staiger

Dominic N. Staiger holds law degrees from Bond University, Australia (LLB with Honours) and the University of Zurich (MLaw). He is a licensed attorney-at-law (New York State Bar) and Visiting Scholar at Columbia University (New York). His research interests include privacy and data protection law with a focus on the legal implications of new technologies such as cloud computing, big data and the Internet of Things. Currently he is completing his PhD on ‘Legal Compliance in the Cloud’ and working as Researcher at the Chair of Prof. Rolf H. Weber. Prior to his legal career he founded an IT company, which he managed for six years.

George Yijun Tian

Dr George Tian is Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Technology, Sydney and Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (UDRP) Neutral appointed by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO). His research focuses on IP, antitrust law, privacy and digital media law. He is also a current research associate of the Cyberspace Law and Policy Centre at the University of New South Wales Law School. He previously served as a consultant of the International Labour Organization, a project coordinator of the Clayton Utz and a visiting fellow at the Harvard Law School and the Oxford Law School.

Peter K. Yu

Peter K. Yu holds the Kern Family Chair in Intellectual Property Law and is the founding director of the Intellectual Property Law Center at Drake University Law School. Born and raised in Hong Kong, he has served as Wenlan Scholar Chair Professor at Zhongnan University of Economics and Law in Wuhan, China and a visiting professor of law at the University of Haifa, the University of Hong Kong, the University of Strasbourg and Washington and Lee University. He is the author or editor of six books and more than 100 law review articles and book chapters.