

---

Index

---

- Abbasi, S. 112, 116
Abelson, M.A. 29, 33–5, 44, 49–52, 229 ability–motivation–opportunity (ABO) model 347, 349, 354, 367, 369
Abowd, J.M. 8, 14, 312, 315–16
Abraham, K. 275–6, 285
age default retirement 71–2, 80 as factor in mobility in Portugal study 291–2, 295–6, 302 and gross worker flows 11–12 and on-the-job search and quit rates 249 mandatory retirement 132, 140
  as mobility characteristic 133–4 Portuguese legal retirement 21 and reward in China and Japan 173–4 turnover trends decreasing with 86
Ajzen, I. 158, 221
Albæk, K. 312, 316, 344
Allen, D.G. 167, 241–2, 350
Allen, N.J. 36, 43, 350
Alsop, R. 189–90
AMO (workforce ability, motivation and opportunity) model 347, 349, 354, 367, 369
Anderson, P.M. 276, 311–12
Aquino, K. 28, 36, 52–3
Armstrong, M. 167, 173
Arnold, J. 27, 30, 53
Askenazy, P. 13, 141 audience for employee turnover data 89–90
Auer, P. 139, 149 autonomy
  as contribution to job satisfaction 168, 193, 209, 224
  mediating effect of 348, 354–7, 360–61, 364–6, 369
avoidability 29–30
Bagger, J. 14, 271
Bailey, T. 347, 349
Baker, G. 136, 276
Bank of Portugal 280–82, 301–2
Barber, A. 167, 170
Barney, J.B. 118, 179–80
Bartel, A. 129, 155
Barth, E. 14–15, 21
Bartol, K.M. 36, 43, 175
Bassanini, A. 6, 10, 17–19
Batt, R. 13, 349, 359
Bauer, T. 13, 17–18, 143, 313
Bax, E.H. 35, 112, 117–18
Becker, B.E. 351–2, 357–8
Becker, G. 130, 132
Becker, H.S. 39, 44
Bedeian, A.G. 36, 44
behavioural predictors organizational citizenship behaviour (OCB) 203 relationships among 204 work engagement 202–3
  work-family conflict (WFC) 203–4
Bellmann, L. 10, 309, 314, 316, 337, 340–41, 343
Bender, S. 13, 313
Bentler, P.M. 207, 359
Bertrand competition 250–51, 256, 260, 262
Bevan, S. 79, 92
Bingley, P. 14–15
Bjelland, M. 14–15
Blau, F.D. 115, 276
Bloom, N. 20, 141
BM (Burdett and Mortensen) equilibrium framework 249–50 paradigm
  equilibrium wage strategies 253–6
  reservation wage strategies 252–3
Bockerman, P. 1, 12
Boeri, T. 17–18, 287
Booth, A.L. 275–7
Boshoff, C. 43, 49

- Bosworth, D. 36–7, 41
 Boxall, P. 111, 347, 351, 357–8, 368
 Bretz, R.D. 35, 37–8, 167, 170
 Brown, S. 119, 190, 195
 Bryson, A. 21, 141, 355
 Burdett, K. 249, 251–6, 271, 275
 Burgess, S. 6, 11–13, 15, 59, 62, 308, 312, 316, 343
 Buscha, F. 77–8 business cycle
     in German establishments changes in hires and separations over 323, 329 and churning flows 308
         distribution of employment growth 323–4 relationship between employment change and employee turnover during 316, 342 worker flows and employment growth 329, 331 Portuguese 280 labour market fluctuations 281–3 labour turnover and promotion rates over 284–6 mobility and career progress over 286–9
     results 294–300
 and quit turnover survey
     BM paradigm 252–6
     employment contracts 250–51
     equilibrium framework 249–50
     gross hires and gross separations 247–9
     stochastic extensions 250–51, 257–70
     wage profiles 249
 Campion, M.A. 29, 31, 35, 118, 215, 347
 Cappelli, P. 146, 148, 150, 176–7, 367
 career progress
     for Generation Y 186, 194
     low prospects of during Great Recession 294–5 and shock to GDP growth 280 in Portugal over business cycle, 286–7 regulation of 284–5
     results 294–5
     and training 154
         see also promotions
 Carlsson, M. 340, 342
 Carsten, J.M. 35, 37–8, 214
 Cascio, W.F. 36, 49, 91, 213–14
 causal model (Price and Mueller) 44–6, 220–21
 Cazes, S. 139, 149
 Centeno, M. 10–12, 15, 19, 301, 311, 313, 315–16
 Chang, E. 36, 43, 53
 Cho, S. 109, 121
 churning argument on what is reflected by 337 attributes 11–12
     definitions 7, 139, 305, 310 flows, relationship with job flows 308–9
     in German establishments 334–7, 341
     intuitive implication of 342 negative correlations with wages 13 as partly independent of employment adjustment 342 rates of R&D employees 144 rates, relationship with worker flow rates 320–21, 326–7 at zero employment growth 327–9, 334
 CIPD (Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development) 62, 67, 75, 113
 Clark, A. 11, 141
 Cohen, A. 33–4
 Coles, M.G. 251, 257, 260, 264–71
 Combs, J. 349–50
 common method variance (CMV) 206 compensation policy
     pay levels
         as determinant of voluntary turnover 166–72
         as first- or second-order consideration 166 potential contribution of ‘total reward’ 179–80 practices aiming to reduce turnover deferred pay 176–7
         pension and benefits 177–9
         performance-related pay 174–6
         salary progression systems 172–4

- conceptual model of turnover process (Mobley, et al) 110, 220
- confirmatory factor analysis (CFA) 205–6
- conflict work-family 201–10
as workplace dysfunction 227, 230, 233, 235, 238–41
- Cooper, C.L. 1
- costs of labour turnover costing checklist 98–108 how to cost 91–2 immense 112
when to cost 91
- Cottini, E. 1, 12
- Cotton, J.L. 214, 359
- 'cusp-catastrophe' model (Sheridan and Abelson) 49–52
- cycles and trends 15–16
see also retention, tenure and turnover trends
- Dale-Olsen, H. 1, 8–9, 12–15, 21
- Dalton, D.R. 28, 32, 35, 49, 52, 229
- data collecting on causes of resignation 92–4
in high performance HR practices study 356–7 collecting and reporting 88–9 audience 89–90
desire for external benchmarking 90 frequency 89 need for one-off reports 90–91 need for trend analysis 90
seasonality 90
common issues 7–11 external, for comparisons 87–8 internal, sources of 88
sources to diagnose and solve staff retention problems 94–6
- Davis, S.J. 6, 8, 10–11, 15–16, 21, 138, 149, 306–8, 310–11, 313, 316, 325, 329
- Dawley, D. 27, 44
- Deci, E. 349–50, 355
- decisional process turnover model (Mobley) 160–61, 218–19
- default retirement age (DRA) 71–2, 80
- deferred pay 176–7
- Delery, J.E. 351, 354–5, 358
- department store chain example 230–36
- Dess, G.D. 84, 157
- determinants of labour turnover model (March and Simon) 42–4
- dismissal costs 16–19
- Durkin, D. 185, 192
- dynamic labour demand analysis 138–9
- dynamic monopsony 250–51, 264–70
- economic explanation of employee turnover 36–41
- economic recovery, possible effects of 76–7
- economics of employee turnover 119–21
- education 116, 135, 149, 290–92, 295–8, 300–301
- Egan, T.M. 110–11
- EHP (Establishment History Panel) 317–19, 321–37
- employee turnover action areas for managing 95–6 aggregate pattern of, in German establishments 319–23 antecedents of 113–17 as consequence of reallocation of labour 5 costs of 91–2, 98–108, 112 current global state of 1–2 data issues 7–11
defining 28, 80–81, 110–13 economic explanation of 36–41 economics of 119–21
effects of 117–19, 121–2
four paths to 241–2 hires and separations as 305 as index of organizational effectiveness 109 as indicator of stability 1 and institutions 16–21
and job growth, cycles and trends 15–16 literature developments during 2000s 5–6 and non-wage attributes 11–13 as organizational resource drain 213 psychological explanation of 41–52

- understanding 27–30
- and wages 13–15
- and worker flow measures 6–7
- see also* measures of employee turnover; turnover intention; voluntary turnover
- employment adjustment see job turnover study
- employment protection legislation (EPL) 16–19, 287, 305, 339, 341
- employment, turnover and career progress
  - case of Portugal 278–83
  - data set and concepts
    - career progress 286–9
    - mobility 286–9
    - promotions 284–6
    - sample size 283–4
    - separations from firms 284–6
  - empirical specification 289–94
  - empirical studies 275–7
  - Great Recession 274, 278–80, 283–4, 288–9, 291, 294–5
  - methods 277–8
  - neoclassical model of labour market 274–5
  - results
    - career progress 294–5
    - mobility 294–5, 299–300
    - promotions 294–7
    - separations from firms 295–9
  - equilibrium wage strategies 253–6
- Eriksson, T. 11, 136, 144, 149
- event-based model of turnover see shocks and events diagnostic methodology
- exit data 95
- expanded model (Mobley, et al) 46–9
- expansion and contraction of
  - employers see job turnover study
- expectancy-theory model 155–6
- external benchmarking, desire for 90

- Faberman, R.J. 15–16, 309, 343
- factors affecting decision to quit 159
- Fallick, B. 15, 248
- Farber, H.S. 134, 139, 276, 302
- Farrell, D. 36, 39
- Feldman, D.C. 203, 358
- firing restrictions 16–19

- Fishbein, M. 158, 221
- Fisher, B. 213, 222
- Fleischman, C.A. 15, 248
- flexible working 74–5, 96
- Francesconi, M. 275–7
- Frederiksen, A. 10, 149, 277, 298
- Freeman, R. 141, 149
- frequency of reporting 89

- Gaertner, K.N. 36, 44
- Galor, O. 276–7
- Gardner, T.M. 347, 349–50, 354, 357, 362, 368
- Garino, G. 117, 119–20
- Garnero, A. 6, 10, 17–19
- Gartell, M. 10, 314
- gender
  - differences
    - within age and educational qualification group 11
    - in mobility study 134, 150
    - in retention, tenure and turnover 65–7
  - effects of recession 300
  - in high performance HR practices study 358–9, 361–6
  - and promotions 275–6
  - separation from firms 276–7, 297–8
  - wage gap 15
- Generation X 169, 184, 187–9, 193
- Generation Y
  - attracting and retaining careers 194
  - management style and culture 192–3
  - reward 194–6
  - structured support 193–4
  - characteristics of 184–5, 189–91
  - comparison with Generation X 187–9
  - lack of academic literature on 183
  - need for further research on 196–7
  - as precarious generation 191
  - questions to address 183–4
  - turnover in 185–7
- Gerhart, B. 35, 167
- German establishments
  - aggregate pattern of employee turnover 319–23
  - churning 334–7

- contribution of hiring to
  - employment reductions 329–34
- distribution of employment growth
  - 323–4
- EHP and IAB Establishment Panels
  - 317–19
- facing high separation costs 339
- hires and separations as margins of
  - adjustments 324–9
- quits and lay-offs 337–9
- study findings 342–3
- Gibbs, M. 146, 150
- Gioia-Herman, J. 188, 193, 195
- Glebbeck, A.C. 35, 112, 117–18
- 'global' turnover rate 85–7
- Gómez-Salvador, R. 6, 17
- Goode, W.J. 201–2
- Great Recession
  - how determinants of mobility
    - were affected by 274, 278–80, 283–4, 288–9, 291, 294–5, 297, 299–301
  - mobility rates lower during 127
  - and perception of increasing job
    - insecurity 139
- Greenhaus, J.H. 204, 209
- Gregg, P. 62, 79, 280
- Griffeth, R.W. 28, 33, 35, 37–8, 42–6, 49, 52, 93, 111, 113, 115, 117, 168, 177, 214–15, 217, 219, 221–2, 224–5, 241, 351, 358
- Gruman, J.A. 201–3
- Guest, D.E. 122, 168, 352, 358
- Hackman, J.R. 213, 223–4, 226
- Hagedorn, M. 263, 271
- Hall, R.E. 134, 146, 279, 282, 285
- Haltiwanger, J. 6–8, 11, 15–18, 21, 149, 311
- Hamermesh, D. 138, 312
- Hand, H. 46–9
- Handel, M. 141, 149
- Hashimoto, M. 140, 142
- hazard model of job mobility 289–91, 294–301
- Herzberg, F. 40, 96, 115
- high performance HR practices and
  - voluntary employee turnover,
    - relationship between 349–51
  - aims of study 347–8
- contingency assumptions across job
  - levels 352–4
- interactive effects 351–2
- mediating effect of employee KSAs,
  - motivation and autonomy
    - 354–6
- methods
  - data collection 356–7
  - measures 357–9
  - statistical procedures 359–60
- results 360–67
  - discussion of 367–9
- study limitations 369
- theoretical background and
  - hypotheses 348–56
- Hinkin, T.R. 109, 118
- Hira, N. 185, 191
- hires
  - contribution to employment
    - reductions 329–34
  - and dynamic monopsony 264–9
  - and Great Recession 278
  - moving procyclically 15–16
  - in multi-worker firms case 307–8
  - new, and incumbents 119
  - new, trial period for, in UK 18
  - teenage 19
- hires and separations
  - diminished, by increasing retirement
    - age 21
  - as 'employee turnover' 305
  - and falls in employment 306
  - and 'flows approach' 138–9
  - gross, in business cycle survey 247–8, 269
  - in job turnover study 309–11, 314–23, 340–42
    - and churning 334
      - as margins of adjustments 324–9
    - questions used to determine 346
  - mobility over business cycle 286–7
  - and worker flow measures 6–7
- Hirsch, B. 13, 15
- Hollman, K. 112, 116
- Holmbeck, G.M. 359–60
- Holtom, B.C. 27, 35, 109, 215–16, 241
- Hom, P.W. 28, 33, 35, 37–8, 42–6, 49, 52, 93, 111–12, 168, 177, 214–19, 221–3, 229, 358–9
- Honoré, S. 189, 194

- Howe, N. 183, 185
- HPWS (high performance work system) see high performance HR practices
- HR (human resources) see high performance HR practices
- Hulin, C.L. 33–5, 38–9, 117, 216–17
- Huselid, M.A. 36, 112, 143, 349, 352, 357–8
- Hyatt, H.R. 16, 62
- IAB (Institut für Arbeitsmarkt-und Berufsforschung) Establishment Panel 318–20, 325–33, 337–40
- Ilmakunnas, P. 1, 12, 313
- Im, U.L. 115–16
- inducement-contribution theory (March and Simon) 216–17
- Ingersoll, R.M. 109, 117
- institutions
  - employment protection legislation, firing restrictions and dismissal costs 16–19
  - minimum wage legislation 19
  - other kinds of 20–21
  - product market regulations 19–20
- inter-firm mobility
  - of chief executive officers 137
  - as directly determined by worker 276
  - and education 135
  - existing research on 129
  - features in common with intra-firm mobility 136
  - occurring more in early career 275
  - previous empirical research on 129
  - theories of 130–33
  - and young workers 134
- intra-firm mobility
  - features in common with inter-firm mobility 136
  - scarce research on 129, 148
  - theories of 135–7
- involuntary turnover
  - consequences of 84–5
  - defining 81–2
  - distinction with voluntary turnover 28–9, 112, 157
- Jackofsky, E.F. 36, 111
- Jahn, E. 13, 15
- Jiang, K. 349, 351–2, 354–5
- Jimeno, J. 17–18
- job content 96
- job fees and directed search 257–60, 270
- job growth 15–16
- job levels 347–8, 352–4, 368
- job reallocation 6–7, 15–17
- job shopping theory 275
- job turnover study
  - empirical concepts 309–11
  - employment adjustment and employee turnover in German establishments 317–19
  - aggregate pattern of employee turnover 319–23
  - churning 334–7
  - contribution of hiring to employment reductions 329–34
  - distribution of employment growth 323–4
  - hires and separations as margins of adjustments 324–9
  - quits and lay-offs 337–9
  - existing evidence 311–17
  - explaining use of separations 339–41
  - questions used 346
  - relationship between employee and job turnover 305–6, 342–3
  - theory 306–9
  - jobs, changing nature of 67–71
- Jones, D.R. 275–6
- Jovanovic, B. 132, 275, 309
- Kahn, L.M. 115, 276
- Kammeyer-Mueller, J.D. 223–4, 241
- Kaur, B. 112, 115
- Kehoe, R.R. 349–50, 357–8
- Kellough, J.E. 114, 116
- Kemery, E.R. 36, 43
- Khatri, N. 117, 167
- Kingl, A. 186, 189–90, 192, 195
- Kinnie, N. 352–3, 368
- Kirschenbaum, A. 35, 38–9, 41–2, 53
- Koys, D.J. 118–19
- Krau, E. 33, 36, 44
- Kristof, A. 114, 116
- KSAs (knowledge, skills and abilities)
  - effect of promotion 251

- HR practices designed to affect 349
 measures 358
 mediating effect of 354–7, 369
 statistical procedures 360–61, 364–7
 Kuvaas, B. 161, 356
- labour adjustment 137–9
 Labour Force Surveys (LFS) 59–60, 62–3, 75, 77, 271
 labour market school of thought labour market scope 40–41
 objective measure of opportunities 38–40
 search theory 37–8
 strengths and weaknesses of 36–7
 labour market scope 40–41
 Lamadon, T. 263, 271
 Lambert, E.G. 110, 113, 115–16
 Lawler, E.E. 43, 167, 213, 224
 Lazear, E.P. 13–14, 16, 36–7, 40, 131–3, 135–6, 142, 146, 149–50, 167, 275,
 297, 308, 320, 337, 343
 Lee, T.W. 27–8, 33–8, 42, 44, 53, 215–17, 222–6, 229, 241
 Lencioni, P.M. 227, 235
 Lepak, D.P. 349, 352, 354, 357
 Levine, D. 131, 141, 149
 Levine, E.L. 201, 203
 Levy-Garboua, L. 1, 11
 Lewis, G.B. 114, 116
 Liao, H. 349, 355
 Light, A. 20, 277
 Lilien, D.M. 279, 282, 285
 Lin, S.C. 203, 205
 Lise, J. 250–51, 253, 257, 260–63, 270 local labour markets 32, 39, 41
 Locke, E.A. 46, 218, 353
 Long, C.S. 171, 185
 Lounsbury, J.W. 216, 221
 Lum, L. 36, 49, 53
 Lynch, L.M. 1, 131
- Macky, K. 347, 351, 357–8, 368
 Maertz, C.P. 33, 115, 118, 347, 351
 Makepeace, G.H. 275–6
 management style 96, 192–3
 Manning, A. 13, 15, 271
 Mano-Negrin, R. 35, 39, 41–2, 53
 March, J.G. 28, 36, 42–4, 46, 111, 159–60, 215–17, 219–22, 228
 marital status 134
 Marsland, D. 193–6
 Martin, C. 117, 119–20
 Martin, T.N. 36, 45, 50
 Martins, P.S. 17–18, 21
 McCrindle, M.M. 190, 192
 McCue, K. 135, 275–6
 McEvoy, G.M. 36, 49, 213–14 measures of employee turnover and defining 110–13
 functionality 31–3
 ‘global’ turnover rate 85–7
 in high performance HR practices study 357–9 lack of sophistication in 31 making external comparisons 87–8 need for 31 prediction 33–6
 use of internal data sources 88 and worker flows 6–7
 Medoff, J.L. 275–6, 285
 Meglino, B. 46–9
 Meier, J. 187, 189
 Mels, G. 43, 49
 Menzio, G. 250–51, 257–60, 263, 270 met expectations model (Porter and Steers) 217–18
 Meyer, B.D. 276, 311–12
 Meyer, J.P. 36, 43, 111, 113, 157, 214, 350
 Midwestern hospital example 236–41
 Millennials see Generation Y
 Mincer, J. 131, 134, 149
 minimum wage legislation 19
 Mirvis, P.H. 112, 213 mistrust in department store chain 230–32, 235 in hospital 236–7, 240
 as workplace dysfunction 227
 Mitchell, T.R. 27–8, 33–4, 37, 42, 44, 53, 215–17, 222–6, 229, 241
 mobility
 and career progress over business cycle 286–9
 empirical specification 289–94
 results 294–5, 299–300
 and decline of life-time jobs and internal labour markets 128 and demographic change 127–8

- existing research on 129
- growing shortage of labour 128–9
- from perspective of firm
  - extent of 143–5
  - retention strategies 145–8
- theories of
  - changes in workplace 139–43
  - firms' labour adjustment 137–9
  - individual characteristics 133–5
  - inter-firm 130–33
  - intra-firm 135–7
- Mobley, W.H. 28, 31, 33, 35–7, 39, 44, 46–9, 51, 79, 109–11, 117, 160–61, 216–21, 223–4, 228–9
- models
  - AMO (workforce ability, motivation and opportunity) model 347, 349, 354, 367, 369
  - causal 44–6, 220–21
  - conceptual model of turnover process 110, 220
  - 'cusp-catastrophe' 49–52
  - decisional process turnover 160–61, 218–19
  - determinants of labour turnover 42–4
  - expanded 46–9
  - expectancy-theory 155–6
  - hazard model of job mobility 289–91, 294–301
  - inducement-contribution theory 216–17
  - met expectations 217–18
  - neoclassical model of labour market 274–5
  - structural 220–22
  - symptomatic events 225
  - turnover intention 159
  - unfolding 222–5
- Morrell, K. 26–7, 30, 32, 35, 53, 92, 159
- Morrow, P.C. 37, 42
- Mortensen, D.T. 5, 16, 138, 249, 251–7, 260, 264–71, 275, 306
- Moscarini, G. 251, 271
- motivation
  - caprice of 79
  - HR practices enhancing 347, 349–54
    - measures 358
    - mediating effect of 354–7
    - results and discussion 360–69
    - statistical procedures 359–60
  - indicators of demotivation 224
  - literature suggesting pay not sole factor in 40
  - March and Simon's account of 42–3
  - and training 155–7, 161
  - variables of 115
- Mowday, R.T. 35, 44, 111, 216
- Muchinsky, P.M. 37, 42
- Mueller, C.W. 44–6, 48–9, 51, 80, 112, 216–17, 220–22, 226
- Murlis, H. 167, 173
- Nagypál, E. 309, 343
- Nelson, J.B. 29, 31, 49
- Ng, T.W.H. 203, 358
- Nickell, S. 60, 138
- Nollen, S.D. 36, 44
- non-wage attributes 11–13
- nursing 30, 34
- O'Byrne, S.F. 171, 176
- OECD 6, 9, 11–12, 15, 17, 19–20, 278–81, 289, 339, 342
- O'Halloran, P.L. 1, 142
- Oldham, G. 224, 226
- one-off reports 90–91
- opportunity
  - cost 83, 157
  - as ease of movement 221
  - HR practices enhancing 347, 349–54
    - benefits of 354–5
    - effects on autonomy, motivation and employee KSAs 354–7
    - measures 258
    - results and discussion 360–69
    - statistical procedures 359–60
- index (EOI) 217
- loss
  - in department store chain 230–36
  - in hospital 237, 239, 241
  - as workplace dysfunction 227–8
  - objective measure of 38–40
  - as variable in causal model 45, 48
- O'Reilly, C.A. 53, 114
- organizational citizenship behaviour (OCB) 203–10
- Orrell, L. 191, 194
- Osuna, W. 114, 116

- Ovalle, N.K. 214, 222
 Oyer, P. 129, 148
- Paine Schofield, C. 189, 194
 Parry, E. 71, 77
 pay levels
   as determinant of voluntary turnover 166–72
   as first- or second-order consideration 166
 pension and benefits 177–9
 performance-related pay 143, 174–6
 Pergamit, M.R. 275–6, 285
 Pettman, B.O. 33, 35
 Pfeffer, J. 39, 41, 118
 Phillips, D.J. 79, 118
 Pissarides, C.A. 5, 16, 129, 138, 260, 306 planned behaviour (theory of) 157–8
 Porter, L.W. 31, 35–6, 43–4, 111, 160, 216–18, 220
 Portugal
   Bank of Portugal 280–82, 301–2
   determinants of labour turnover and career progress over business cycle data set and concepts 283–9
     empirical specification 289–94
     results and conclusions 294–300 and global financial crisis 279–80, 283 increased legal retirement age 21 labour market performance in 278–9 patterns of economic growth and labour market dynamics 280–83 rising unemployment levels 279, 282 symmetric relationship between employee turnover and job turnover 313, 316 women in labour market 297–8, 302
 Portugal, P. 19, 301
 Postel-Vinay, F. 16, 250–51, 271 prediction, role of 33–6
 Price, J.L. 28, 32–3, 35, 44–9, 51, 80, 109, 111–12, 216–17, 218, 220–22, 226
 PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) 185–7, 213 product market regulations 19–20
 promotions
   data set and concepts 284–6
   as dependent on opening of vacancies 302 and employee KSAs 351, 355 in employment, turnover and career progress study 274–8 concept of 284–6
   empirical specification 289–94
   within mobility and career progress 286–9
   results and conclusions 294–300
   as type of labour mobility 286 and intra-firm mobility 135–6 motivation-enhancing HR practices 354–5 opportunity for, in unfolding model 222–5
   results 294–5
 psychological contract 156–7 psychological school of thought accounts concerned with individual choice 41–2 ‘cusp-catastrophe’ model 49–52
   March and Simon’s model 42–4
   Mobley, Griffeth, Hand and Meglino’s expanded model 46–9
   Price and Mueller’s causal model 44–6 role of variables 52–3
 Purcell, J. 352, 368
- quit turnover and business cycle
   BM paradigm 252–6
   employment contracts 250–51
   equilibrium framework 249–50
   gross hires and gross separations 247–9
   stochastic extensions 250–51, 257–70
   wage profiles 249
- quits as costly 264
   as endogenous, in ‘flows approach’ 139 factors other than pay responsible for 169, 171 and gender 277
   job satisfaction negatively correlated with 141 job-to-job 249–51

- and lay-offs 15–16, 142, 285, 310, 320, 337–9
- moving procyclically 15–16
- negative impact of unemployment benefits on 20
- organizational examples using both quit intention and actual 229–41
- and separations 340–41
- use by firms to achieve employment reductions 305–7, 309, 324–5
- as voluntary ending of employment relationship 7
- recruitment
  - for managing turnover 95
  - and selection costs checklist 104–5
- Rees, H. 59, 62
- Reisenwitz, T.H. 188, 193
- Renn, R.W. 33, 175
- reservation wage strategies 252–3
- resignation, collecting data on causes of 92–4
- retention, tenure and turnover trends
  - changing nature of jobs 67–71
  - changing nature of workers 71–5
  - data sources and skills for diagnosis and solving problems of 94–6
  - gender differences in 65–7
  - Labour Force Surveys (LFS) 59–60, 62–3, 75, 77
  - major findings on 60–65
  - possible effects of economic recovery 76–7
  - results of analysis 75–6
  - retention strategies 145–8
- reward
  - for Generation Y 194–6
  - lack
    - in department store chain 230, 233, 235
    - in hospital 239–40
    - as workplace dysfunction 228
    - for managing turnover 96
    - see also* compensation policy
- risk analysis 95
- Robert-Edomi, S. 193, 195
- Robin, J.M. 13, 250–51, 257, 260–63, 270
- role strain, theory of 201
- Rosen, S. 135, 275, 297
- Rosenbaum, J.E. 275–6, 285
- Rousseau, D. 156–7
- Royalty, A.B. 150, 277
- Rusbult, C.E. 36, 39
- Russell, C.J. 214–15
- Ryan, R.M. 349–50
- Saks, A.M. 201–3
- salary progression systems 172–4
- Salop, S. 119–20, 133
- Samuel, P. 29, 34–5, 170
- Saridakis, G. 1
- Schaefer, S. 129, 148
- Schein, E. 110, 156
- search theory 37–8
- seasonality 90
- separations
  - costs checklist 100–101
  - cyclical correlations 249
  - and dismissal protection 18
  - explaining use of 339–41
  - from firms 275
    - concept of 284–6
    - determinants of 277–8
    - empirical specification 289–94
    - within mobility and career progress 286–9
    - results 295–9
  - negative relation with wages 11–12, 14
  - and sequential auction approach 260
  - types of 7, 11
    - see also* hires and separations
- sequential auctions 260–63, 270
- Shamsuzzoha, A. 112–13
- Shaw, J.D. 12, 35, 84, 115, 157, 351, 354–5
- Shaw, K.L. 13, 136
- Sheridan, J.E. 33–4, 44, 49–52, 110
- Shi, S. 250–51, 257–60, 263, 270–71
- Shimer, R. 260, 270
- shocks and events diagnostic methodology
  - diagnostic instrument description 226–8
  - fifty years of turnover theory 215–16
  - conceptual model of turnover process 220

- decisional process turnover model 218–19
  - inducement-contribution theory 216–17
  - met expectations 217–18
  - structural model 220–22
  - unfolding model 222–5
- four paths to turnover 241–2
- implementation in practice 228–9
- organizational examples 229–30
  - department store chain 230–36
  - Midwestern hospital 236–41
- symptomatic events model 225
- understanding of variance in employee decisions to quit 213–15
- Shumon, R.H. 112–13
- Sicherman, N. 276–7
- Simon, H.A. 28, 36, 42–4, 46, 111, 159–60, 215–17, 219–22, 228
- Snell, S.A. 352, 354, 357
- social exchange theory 158–9, 349
- Sørensen, B. 312, 316, 344
- Sparrow, P.R. 2, 157
- Spector, P.E. 35, 37–8, 214
- Spletzer, J.R. 13–14, 16, 62, 308, 320, 337, 343
- Steel, R.P. 38, 214, 216, 221–2
- Steers, R.M. 31, 35, 44, 111, 216–18, 220
- stochastic extensions
  - dynamic monopsony 250–51, 264–70
  - job fees and directed search 257–60
  - sequential auctions 260–63
- ‘stocks’ and ‘flows’ 79
- Strauss, W. 183, 185
- structural model (Price and Mueller) 220–22
- Subramony, M. 349, 352, 367
- Swanberg, J.E. 203, 209
- symptomatic events model 225
- Tang, T.L. 38, 40, 53
- Tapscott, D. 186, 188–9
- temporary replacement costs checklist 102–3
- tenure see retention, tenure and turnover trends
- Terborg, J.R. 28, 38
- Tett, R.P. 111, 113, 214
- Tharenou, P. 155, 225, 349, 355
- Thoursie, P.S. 17–18
- Topel, R.H. 134–5, 276
- ‘total reward’ 179–80
- Tracey, J.B. 109, 118
- training and development
  - crucial role of 154–5
  - for managing turnover 95
  - relationship of perceptions of turnover intention and 161–2
    - conceptual framework 163–4
    - propositions 163
  - theory
    - expectancy-theory model 155–6
    - psychological contract 156–7
- trend analysis, need for 90
- trends see cycles and trends; retention, tenure and turnover trends
- Turnover Events and Shocks Scale (TESS) 215, 225–32, 235–8, 240, 242
- turnover intention
  - relationship of perceptions of training and 161–2
    - conceptual framework 163–4
    - propositions 163
  - role perspective on behavioural predictors 202–4
    - limitation and future research 210
    - methods 205–6
    - results 206–9
    - role behaviours 201–2
    - theoretical and practical implications 209–10
    - theoretical development and hypotheses 202–4
  - theory
    - March and Simon’s model 159
    - Mobley’s model 160–61
    - planned behaviour 157–8
    - role theory 202
    - social exchange 158–9
- Tuttle, J.M. 214, 359
- unfolding model (Lee and Mitchell) 222–5
- ‘Unweaving Leaving’ approach 26–8, 30, 34, 52
- Urwin, P. 71, 77–8

- van Ours, J. 279, 281, 287, 300
 Vandenberg, R.J. 29, 31, 33, 49, 349
 Veum, J.R. 275–6, 285
 Voigt, E.A. 202, 205 voluntary turnover
     consequences of 82–3
     defining 81–2
     pay levels as determinant of 166–72
     voluntariness 28–9
     see also high performance HR practices and voluntary employee turnover, relationship between
 Von Below, D. 17–18

 Wadsworth, J. 62, 79, 280
 wage gap
     gender 15
     immigrant-native 15 wages and employee turnover general relationships between 13–14
         heterogeneous relationships between 14–15
     negative correlations with churning 13 negative relation with separations
         11–12, 14
 Wang, Y. 1, 112
 Wanous, J.P. 115, 218

 Ward, M.P. 134–5, 276
 Westergaard-Nielsen, N. 14–15
 Wise, D.A. 275–6, 297, 302
 work engagement
     as behavioural predictor of turnover
         intention 202–3
         implications 209 relationships with other predictors 204
         results 206–10
     measures 205
     reasons for choice as variable 201
     reliability and validity 205–6
 work-family conflict (WFC)
     as behavioural predictor of turnover
         intention 203–4
         implications 209–10
         relationships with other predictors 204
         results 207–10
     measures 205
     reasons for choice as variable 201
     reliability and validity 205–6 worker flow measures 6–7 worker mobility see mobility workers, changing nature of 71–5 workplace changes 139–43 workplace dysfunctions 227–8
 Wright, P.M. 349–50, 357–8

 Yan, S. 188, 191
 Yener, M. 202–3, 205