References

English Literature

Bagehot, W., 1895. Physics and Politics: or Thoughts on the Application of the Principles of “Natural Selection” and “Inheritance” to Political Science, New York: D. Appleton.

References

Marks, Robert B., 1997. Tigers, Rice, Silk, and Silt: Environment and References

Economy in Late Imperial South China, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
Needham, Joseph, 1944. “Science and Culture in China,” Lecture, Zhejiang University, Meitan, Guizhou Province, China, October 25.

Chinese Literature

References

Chen Ping, 2002a. “Differences in Science and Technology between China and the West from the Perspective of the Needham Puzzle,” The Impact of Science on Society, 2, 49–57.
Chen Zhen, 2007. Discussion of Society and Politics in the Song Dynasty, Shanghai: Shanghai People’s Press.
China's long-term economic development

History as a Mirror, 2009. Vol. 138, Qiji (four), Emperor Shizuwu (the second half), the 11th Year of Yongming (AD 494), June 26th, Bingzi Day (Chinese agricultural calendar), Beijing: Huawen Press.
Institute of History and Philology, Academia Sinica, 2016. Ming-Shi-Lu (The History of the Ming Dynasty), Beijing: Zhonghua Press.
Li Daogang, 1995. “A Reexamination of Ba Bai Xi Fu’s Request to Belong to the Yuan Dynasty,” Southeast Asia, 1.
Li Weisen, 2006. “Smithian Dynamics and Braudel Phosphorizer, a Perspective to Study the Reason of the Rise of the West and the Stagnance of the Qing Dynasty,” Frontier of Social Sciences, 1, 72–85.
China’s long-term economic development

References

Yuanlin, 2008. “The Peasant Economy was the Main Foundation of the Prosperity of the Commercial Economy in the State-warring Period,” Journal of Lanzhou University (Social Sciences), 36(4), 3.

