Author biographies

Linda E. Carter is Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of the Pacific, McGeorge School of Law. She has worked in many international venues, including as a Visiting Professional at the ICC and as a Legal Researcher at the ICTR. She has additionally co-directed the Brandeis Institute for International Judges; served as a Fulbright Senior Specialist in Senegal; facilitated curriculum development programs at universities in Sierra Leone, Zimbabwe, and Kenya; conducted research on Gacaca trials in Rwanda; and developed a summer program for law students in Uganda. She has published in the areas of international criminal law and procedure in books and articles.

Mark S. Ellis is Executive Director of the International Bar Association (IBA). He served as Legal Advisor to the Independent International Commission on Kosovo, and was appointed by the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) to advise on the creation of Serbia’s War Crimes Tribunal. He was actively involved with the Iraqi High Tribunal and also acted as legal advisor to the defense team of Nuon Chea at the Cambodian War Crimes Tribunal (ECCC). In 2015, Dr. Ellis was appointed Chair of the Advisory Panel on Matters Relating to Defence Counsel of the Mechanism for International Criminal Tribunals. He has published extensively in the areas of international humanitarian law, war crimes tribunals, and the development of the rule of law.

Charles Chernor Jalloh is Associate Professor at Florida International University (FIU) College of Law, the Founding Director of the African Court Research Initiative (ACRI) and a FIU Top Scholar for 2015. He was formerly Assistant Professor of Criminal and International Law at the University of Pittsburgh Law School, where he was the Buchanan Ingersoll and Rooney Faculty Scholar for 2013–2014. He has worked in the Canadian Department of Justice, the Special Court for Sierra Leone (SCSL), the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR), and as a visiting professional in the International Criminal Court. He has published widely in international criminal law and is founding editor of the African Journal of International Criminal Justice.