

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
List of contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xii
Introduction: the anthropology of corruption Davide Torsello	1
1 The role of the anti-corruption legislation and of ethical values in (re)defining corruption: the case of Monza, Italy Maria Giulia Pezzi	23
2 Culture, organizational change and the “bounded morality” in Hungarian public administration Davide Torsello	53
3 Party corruption in the Bosnia and Herzegovina public employment system: public discourse, legal and moral legitimation Zaira Tiziana Lofranco	75
4 Academic dishonesty or corrupt values: the case of Russia Elena Denisova-Schmidt	105
5 The making of citizenship against corruption in Kosovo: protest, lies, and the public good Nita Luci	138
6 Socio-cultural dimensions of corruption in Turkish public administration Muhittin Acar	162
7 Old regime habits die hard: clientelism, patronage and the challenges to overcoming corruption in post-authoritarian Mexico Claudia Baez Camargo and Rodrigo Megchún Rivera	186

8	Between condemnation and resignation: a study on attitudes towards corruption in the public health sector in Tanzania Claudia Baez Camargo and Richard Faustine Sambaiga	211
	Conclusion Davide Torsello	235
	Index	253