

Acknowledgments

The data included in this volume have been collected thanks to an EU FP7 research grant in the project ANTICORRP (www.anticorrrp.eu) Global Trends and European Responses to the Challenge of Corruption. The section in which this project originates is Working Package 4 “The Ethnographic Study of Corruption Ideas and Practices” led by Davide Torsello, previously of the University of Bergamo, Italy in the period 2012–2015. We are very grateful to Dr. Italo Pardo and Dr. Giuliana Prato (University of Kent), Dr. Melinda Papp (ELTE University, Hungary) and Dr. Zsuzsanna Árendas for their precious insights and comments in the phase of analysis of the ethnographic material.