Figures

0.1 Contemporary ad for Tide detergent 2
2.1 A print ad from before the explosion of consumer magazines 33
2.2 Another early print ad 33
2.3 A somewhat later print ad containing body copy 34
2.4 An early magazine ad for Ivory Soap 35
2.5 Another early magazine ad for Ivory Soap 35
2.6 Early Ivory Soap ad where the illustration is central 36
2.7 A print-heavy magazine ad from the early 1900s 38
2.8 An ad from the 1900s where the illustration is key 39
2.9 A cereal ad from the 1900s where illustration and text are balanced 40
2.10 Another cereal ad from the early 1900s 41
2.11 Nabisco ad from the early 1900s showing border 43
2.12 An early Nabisco ad featuring the package 43
2.13 Campbell’s soup ad from the early 1900s 44
2.14 Early 1900s ad with before and after photos 44
2.15 Jello ad from early 1900s with busy, cluttered layout 45
2.16 Kodak ad from early 1900s relying on illustration rather than photo 47
2.17 Libby’s ad from the 1920s with unsuccessful photos 51
2.18 Vacuum cleaner ad from the 1920s with uninspired photography 52
2.19 Quaker ad from the 1920s unsuccessful in depicting food 53
2.20 Crisco ad from the 1920s also unsuccessful in depicting food 55
2.21 Beech-Nut ad from the 1920s showing successful black and white illustration 56
2.22 Word-heavy Mum deodorant ad from the 1920s 57
2.23 Heinz ad from the 1920s without color 58
2.24 ScotTissue ad from the 1920s showing potential of hand-drawn imagery 58
2.25 Clothing ad from the 1950s retaining older styles 60
2.26 Baldwin Piano ad from the 1950s also using older styles 60
2.27 Chix diaper ad from the 1950s using a more contemporary style 62
Figures

2.28  Nescafé ad from the 1950s using a busy style and newer elements 62
2.29  Clorox ad showing characteristic 1950s styles 63
2.30  Fels-Naptha ad from the 1950s eschewing the use of color 64
2.31  Lux ad from the 1950s showing skillful use of photography 65
2.32  Cosmetics ad from the 1950s with successful photos 66
2.33  General Electric small appliance ad from the 1950s 68
2.34  Shampoo ad from the 1950s with unsuccessful photography 69
2.35  Johnson Wax ad from the 1950s with unsuccessful photography 70
2.36  Ivory soap ad from the 1950s showcasing color photography 71
2.37  Breck shampoo ad from the 1950s 74
2.38  Prell 1950s ad showing branding by color 75
2.39  Volvo ad from the 1980s showing picture window layout 76
2.40  Fragrance ad from the 1980s with successful color photography 78
2.41  Sara Lee ad from the 1980s successfully depicting food 79
2.42  Colgate ad from the 1980s 81
2.43  Maytag ad from the 1980s with unsuccessful staging 82
2.44  Pepto-Bismol ad from the 1980s 83
6.1  Example of a figurative typeface 157
6.2  Another example of a figurative typeface 158
E.1  Gillette ad showing the uncertainty of pictorial interpretation 214