Contents

List of abbreviations viii

1 Why regulation? 1

2 Where are we coming from?… 6
  2.1 From the dark ages to the medieval guild system 6
  2.2 The state discovers regulation – mercantilism 7
  2.3 Modern capitalism unfolds 9
  2.4 Post-war social market economy and the redistribution of wealth in Europe 9

3 Tempering the tyranny of market powers 11
  3.1 Boon and bane of market powers in the EU 11
  3.2 The core instruments of regulation 13
  3.3 The mantras of EU competition law 19
  3.4 The addressees of EU competition law and regulation 23
  3.5 The level playing field of competition: relevant markets 25
  3.6 The new frontier: big data and digitalisation 27

4 The public cause of exploitation 31
  4.1 Exploitation and competition – about unfair distribution of state resources 31
  4.2 The concept of ‘state’ and ‘state resources’ in EU competition law 33
  4.3 State power in the market – temptations for the visible hand 37
  4.4 State aid or market investment? 45
  4.5 Services in the general economic interest vs undistorted competition 55
  4.6 The EU prerogatives to create market power – supporting sectors and technologies by allowing state aid – picking winners, sustaining losers 68
  4.7 Conclusion – regulating state intervention and the cause for public exploitation 95
The art of regulation

5 The art of steering public resources towards the common interest – the supranational approach 96
  5.1 Objectives in the common European interest 96
  5.2 Public procurement rules and competition 108
  5.3 Conclusion 120

6 The art of sector-specific regulation in the internal market 122
  6.1 Principles and methodology as exemplified by the framework of telecommunication regulation 122
  6.2 Snapshots of other regulated industries 143
  6.3 The financial crisis: a fire test to EU regulation 149
  6.4 Outlook: preventing sector-specific regulation from going astray 163

7 The dilemma of regulation – global competitiveness vs integrity of the internal market 165
  7.1 Subsidies regulation in the global market 167
  7.2 The EU’s regulatory response to global competition 182
  7.3 Conclusion – objectives nobler than trade defence 187

8 Where we are going to … 189
  8.1 Supranational regulation and the legitimacy issue 190
  8.2 Regulation and the quest for democracy 210
  8.3 How to regulate the regulator? 215
  8.4 The stage is set 219

9 Epilogue – the European Cause after the British referendum 223

Bibliography 225
Index 229