The degree of revision, rewriting, and updating varies by chapter, and thus there may be differences between the chapters as they are adapted from previously published work. Chapter 2 is a substantial rewriting, and Chapter 3 is a further extension of the previous version by adding a section on specialization and leapfrogging as an essential aspect of the Korean model of development. Chapters 4 and 6 are rather reduced in length for a broader readership. For Chapters 5, 7, and 8, updating has been the main nature of the revision. The other chapters are written in more recent years, and only minor changes were necessary. In general, while I have endeavored to update the chapters, some data or information may inevitably be out of date.

Chapters in the book are revisions and rewritings of previously published works by Keun Lee.
