

Table of contents

About the author	viii
Foreword	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
1 Conceptualizing climate migration	6
2 The humanitarian narrative – human rights, global justice, and the limits of humanitarian reason	53
3 The migration narrative – protection gaps, the refugee analogy, and the rights of migrants	98
4 The responsibility narrative – anthropogenic climate change, migration as injury, and interference in place of reparation	186
5 Pragmatic narratives – self-interests, national aspirations, and global complex interdependence	256
Conclusion	299
Bibliography	308
Index	353