

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Introduction: conceptual directions for privacy in public space Tjerk Timan, Bryce Clayton Newell and Bert-Jaap Koops	1
PART I PHILOSOPHICAL AND EMPIRICAL INSIGHTS
1 Conceptualizing space and place: lessons from geography for the debate on privacy in public Bert-Jaap Koops and Maša Galič	19
2 Hidden in plain sight Michael Nagenborg	47
3 Privacy in public and the contextual conditions of agency Maria Brincker	64
4 A politico-economic perspective on privacy in public spaces Karsten Mause	91
5 Visually distant and virtually close: public and private spaces in the Archives de la Planète (1909–1931) and Life in a Day (2011) Julia M. Hildebrand	112
PART II LAW AND REGULATION
6 Exposure and concealment in digitalized public spaces Stephen B. Zhao	139
7 Covering up: American and European legal approaches to public facial anonymity after SAS v. France Angela Daly	164
8 Privacy Impact Notices to address the privacy pollution of mass surveillance A. Michael Froomkin	184
9 Privacy in public spaces: the problem of out-of-body DNA Albert E. Scherr	211

10	The Internet of other people's things Meg Leta Jones	242
11	Conclusion: the need for privacy in public space Tjerk Timan	269
	Index	291