PRIMARY SOURCES

The English translation only is usually cited in this book but in most cases the text in the original language has also been consulted. Those citations not in English are used because there is no English translation currently available.

The translator's name is given with the original author because in any translation, the translator is effectively the co-author. Where the original author is unclear or multiple authors are translated, the work is listed under the translator's name or, where there are multiple translators, the editor's name.
