

Contents

List of maps	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction: Geopolitical liquidities and nationalist trajectories: fluid boundaries and state reshaping in nineteenth-century Europe	1
PART I AN ATLAS OF NATION-STATE METAMORPHOSIS ACROSS THE TWENTIETH CENTURY
1 The rise of an unstable century	41
2 World War I as change accelerator	58
3 1917 and the Russian revolutions: multiple players and conflicting aspirations to independence in the collapsing empire	64
4 The implications of the political debate between Lenin and Wilson: geopolitics and self-determination	77
5 Irredentism, Hitler and the “New European Order”	104
6 The second post-war period: new borders, ethnic cleansing and the “double dimension” of the national question	127
7 Post-Cold War conflicting principles: post-Socialist sovereignty, ethnic states and territorial integrity	147
PART II STATE DISMEMBERMENTS AND THEIR IMPLICATIONS FOR EUROPE: HOW PARTITIONS AFFECT THE NATURE OF DEMOCRACY
8 Europe in chaos: breaking down or rebuilding the walls?	171
9 Multilevel partitions, globalization, and the metamorphosis of the nation-state	177
10 The lessons not learned from the Yugoslav dismemberment	185
11 The peculiarities of the Czechoslovak partition	196
12 Living in the past or tackling the future: the Baltic experience from the partition of the USSR to EU integration	201

13	Between partitions and state failure: the ethnic key of polity in the experience of Bosnia-Herzegovina	227
14	The crisis of the European project: a new political destiny for partitions?	244
15	How partitions affect the nature of democracy in Europe today	256
	Concluding remarks	291
	Bibliography	299
	Geographic index	323
	Index	329