About the authors

Edward Ashbee is Professor with special responsibilities in American Politics and Policy at Copenhagen Business School (CBS). He is also Director of CBS's BSc and MSc International Business and Politics programs. He has written about US economic policy, cultural politics, and processes of continuity and change. His publications include The Bush Administration, Sex and the Moral Agenda (Manchester University Press, 2007) and The Right and the Recession (Manchester University Press, 2015).

John Dumbrell was Professor of Government at Durham University, UK, between 2007 and 2015. He held chairs previously at Keele and Leicester Universities. Among his books are: The Carter Presidency: A Re-evaluation (Manchester University Press, 1995); President Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Communism (Manchester University Press, 2003: winner of the Richard E. Neustadt book prize); A Special Relationship: US–UK Relations in the Cold War and After (Palgrave, 2001 and 2006: co-winner of the Cambridge University Donner book prize); and Rethinking the Vietnam War (Palgrave, 2012). He is co-editor, with Edward Ashbee, of The Obama Presidency and the Politics of Change (Palgrave, 2015).

Alex Waddan is an Associate Professor in American Politics and American Foreign Policy in the School of History Politics and International Relations at the University of Leicester. His research focuses on US social policy, with a particular interest in the interaction of the role of ideas and institutions in the policy making process. He has been author or co-author of four books and numerous journal articles and chapters. His books include Obamacare Wars: Federalism, State Politics and the Affordable Care Act (Kansas University Press, 2016), which was co-authored with Daniel Béland and Phil Rocco.