

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
Foreword	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvi
Notes on the contributors	xvii
1 Introduction	1
Klaus Schömann and Philip J. O'Connell
2 The theory of labour market transitions applied to the transitional labour market of education and training	8
Klaus Schömann
PART I EDUCATION SYSTEMS AND FIRST ENTRY INTO THE LABOUR MARKET
3 Choosing between education, training and labour market entry	41
Cecilia Albert, Maria A. Davia, Virginia Hernanz and Luis Toharia
4 Segmentation in the labour market: an analysis of recruitment	71
Florence Audier
PART II EVALUATION OF TRAINING TRANSITIONS AND TRAINING POLICIES
5 Active labour market policies, market orientation and gender: findings for young people in Ireland	101
Philip J. O'Connell and Frances McGinnity
6 Training for the unemployed in the Netherlands: what do we know after more than 50 evaluation studies?	119
Jaap de Koning
7 A long-term perspective on the effects of training in Germany	153
Klaus Schömann and Rolf Becker

8	Training transitions in the EU: different policies but similar effects? Klaus Schömann	186
PART III THE FIRM'S RATIONALE FOR TRAINING
9	Training practices and management of older workers: a typology from the French case Annie Jolivet	223
10	Exclusion of older workers, productivity and training Arie Gelderblom and Jaap de Koning	243
11	Training and the transition from work into unemployment Arie Gelderblom, Pieter van Winden, Ruurd Kunnen, William Praat and Marian de Voogd-Hamelink	260
12	Does enterprise-sponsored training aggravate or alleviate existing inequalities? Evidence from Ireland Philip J. O'Connell	285
PART IV ACTORS IN THE FIELD OF TRAINING
13	Firms' further training practices and social exclusion: can industrial relations systems provide greater equality? Theoretical and empirical evidence from Germany and France Olivier Giraud	303
14	Assessing the impact of experimental EU training policies in France, Germany and Ireland Sophie Rouault	331
15	From the market for qualifications to the transitional labour market of learning and working: summary and conclusion Klaus Schömann and Philip J. O'Connell	356
	Index	377