This book consists of a collection of selected papers presented at two international SME conferences organized by the Centre for SME Research and Development, Faculty of Commerce, University of Wollongong, Australia in 2000 and 2002, supplemented by invited papers. The conference in 2000 focused upon the role and contribution of SMEs in national economies in East Asia and their role in the economic recovery of the region. The conference in 2002 focused upon issues relating to sustaining regional recovery through measures that assist in the continued growth and development of regional SMEs.

The editors would like to extend their appreciation and gratitude first and foremost to the contributors to this book, without whose dedicated, timely, thought-provoking and scholarly contributions, as well as patience, this book would not have been possible. At Edward Elgar Publishing we wish to thank Edward Elgar himself for his encouragement of, and support for, this book initiative from a very early stage, which provided the impetus for its completion. In addition, at Edward Elgar Publishing, we would like to thank Alex Minton and Francine O'Sullivan for their patience and highly professional assistance. Last, but not least, we would like to thank our respective families and colleagues for their support and patience during the completion of this book.
