

Tables

---

Britain

5.1 Population change 1951-91, for a six-level urban hierarchy for Great Britain, % for period	99
5.2 Stages of differential urbanization, 1951-91, for Great Britain	100
5.3 Stages of differential urbanization, 1951-91, for four regional divisions of Great Britain	102
5.4 Rates of population change 1981-91 (%) and net within-Britain migration, 1990-91 (per 1000 people), by population size of functional region and FR zone type	103
5.5 Population change resulting from within-Britain migration, 1990-91, by district type	106
5.6 Net migration between pairings of 13 district types, 1990-91, Great Britain	107
5.7 Pairings of district types exhibiting down-hierarchy net flows, 1990-91, by selected characteristics, Great Britain	109
5.8 Population change for eight large conurbations and rest of UK, 1991-99 and 1981-91	111
5.9 Components of population change for eight large conurbations and rest of UK, 1991-99, thousands	112

France

6.1 Expansion of urbanization in France according to two different definitions	125
6.2 Change in the concentration index of city size distribution, 1968-99	131
6.3 Growth rates by city size (% per year)	132

Germany

7.1 Origins of the population in large cities of Germany, 1907	154
7.2 Rate of migration balance with reference to type of counties and time period (West Germany or old Länder)	162

7.3	Rate of migration balance of 25 to 29 year olds (10,000) with reference to type of county and time period (West Germany or old Länder)	163
7.4	Population change of the GDR according to settlement size, 1980-89	174
7.5	Balance of internal migration by settlement size, 1970-89	174
7.6	Rate of migration balance with reference to type of county and time period (East Germany or new Länder)	176
The Netherlands
8.1	The sample of Dutch agglomerations	188
8.2	Population size and density development for the period 1950-2000	190
8.3	Population sizes and shares of municipalities by degree of urbanization, 1950-90	191
8.4	Percentage population growth in related to the degree of urbanization, 1950-2000	192
8.5	Number of municipalities related to degree of urbanization, 1950-2000	193
8.6	Number of municipalities related to categories of numbers of inhabitants, 1950-99	193
8.7	Immigration and emigration figures, 1950-99	195
8.8	Average annual population growth of the individual C-municipalities, of the C-municipalities as a whole and of the Dutch population, 1950 and 1970	196
8.9	Urban developments between 1950 and 1978	196
8.10	Number of municipalities, degree of urbanization, and migration balance of the determined categories, 1948-60	197
8.11	Annual growth rate of 24 selected Dutch agglomerations in % of the total agglomeration population, 1950-82	197
8.12	Percentages of internal migrants in relation to age for the years 1951 and 1960	198
8.13	Labour migration relative to labour force in the Netherlands (migrants with an occupation and labour force male heads of families)	199
8.14	Income development between 1950 and 1978	200
8.15	Income shares of cores and ring zones between 1950 and 1978	200
8.16	Migration effects in the 24 agglomerations (*1000), 1960 and 1978	203

8.17 Migration between Randstad and remaining Netherlands related to age categories in 1975, 1980 and 1985	205
8.18 Migration balances of families and singles in 1975, 1980 and 1985	205
8.19 Urban developments in 1992 and 2000 according to address density	207
8.20 Basic figures of removals within the Netherlands	209
8.21 Some components of internal migration in the Netherlands for the period 1988-98	209
Italy
9.1 Concentration indices of Italy at the regional, provincial and commune level, 1951-99	222
9.2 Typology of Italian regions according to their structural concentration and their deconcentration trends	224
9.3 Population change in the Italian FURs (core+ring), percent	230
Finland
10.1 Inter-municipal migration in urban commuting areas and in non-urban municipalities, 1990-99	244
10.2 Cities and towns by number of inhabitants in Finland, 1950-2010	245
Poland
11.1 Polish urban sizes, 1950-98	273
Romania
12.1 Urban population and the number of urban settlements, 1912-98	298
12.2 Relation between first- and second-rank towns within regional systems, using their population size	307
12.3 The co-ordination centre and its place within regional urban population systems; contribution to population increases, 1977-92	308
Turkey
13.1 Overall results of population censuses, 1927-97	332
13.2 Population of regions by census year in millions, 1950-97	335
13.3 Regional contributions to population by census year, 1950-97	335
13.4 Number of cities and villages by population group and census year, 1950-97	340

13.5	Share of population group by total population and census year, 1950-97 (%)	341
13.6	The main characteristics of the stages of internal migration	348
13.7	The contribution of migration to urban growth, 1945-90	349
13.8	Net migration and rate of net migration, 1975-90 by region	350
13.9	Net migration to cities with a population over 500 000, 1980-90	350
13.10	The percentages of different streams of migration in terms of the total number of migrants, 1965-85	351
13.11	Trends in migration between different types of settlements, 1965-90	352
13.12	A comparison between Turkey and Developed Countries: migration rates to/from urban areas	354
13.13	Gecekonu dwellings and population	355
13.13	Main features of the phases of the process of development of gecekonu	357
The United States of America
14.1	Metropolitan areas classed by international and domestic migration contributions to population change, 1990-99	372
14.2	1990-2000 changes and 2000 sizes of selected race-ethnic groups for categories of large metro areas	374
14.3	2000 race-ethnic and age characteristics, and 1990-2000 changes for categories of large metro areas	376
14.4	Population change by metropolitan status and region	378
14.5	Demographic components of change by metropolitan status and region, 1990-99	381
14.6	1990-2000 changes and 2000 sizes of selected race-ethnic groups by metropolitan status and region	382
14.7	2000 race-ethnic and age characteristics, and 1990-2000 changes, by metropolitan status and region	383
14.8	2000-2025 projected demographic components of change for Los Angeles and Detroit metropolitan areas	386
Canada
15.1	External factors in the reorganization of urban systems	395
15.2	Urbanization by region and city size, Canada, 1996	398
15.3	Urban growth by region and city size, Canada, 1991-96	401
15.4	Urban growth by region and city size, Canada, 1971-96	401

15.5	Spatial reorganization of the urban system and levels of external influence, Canada, 1901-96	403
15.6	The changing components of metropolitan population growth in Canada, 1986-96	406
Mexico
16.1	Urban population by urban size groups, 1910 and 1940	426
16.2	Population 1950-70-90 and growth rates 1950-70 and 1970-90 by rank size	435
Brazil
17.1	Total urban and rural population of Brazil, 1940-2000	457
17.2	Degree of urbanization and growth rates of the rural population, regions of Brazil, 1950-2000	460
17.3	Total population, urban and rural, growth rates (% per year) and relative distribution (%)	463
17.4	In-migration and out-migration by region, 1986-91 and 1991-96	467
17.5	Migratory movements according to rural or urban area, states of Brazil, 1981-91	469
17.6	Total population and growth rates (% per year) metropolitan Regions, 1970-2000	474
17.7	Population according to the Brazilian urban network Morphology, 1980-2000	476
South Korea
19.1	Changes in the national urban hierarchy, 1960-99	505
19.2	City populations, 1960-2000 ('000)	507
19.3	City growth rates and index, 1960-95	509
19.4	Population in the Capital Region, 1955-95 ('000)	512
19.5	Capital Region's share of nation c. 1995	513
19.6	The distribution of population and employment in Seoul, 1981-96	513
19.7	Interregional net migration, 1970-95	515
19.8	Migration flows and patterns among urban and rural areas ('000)	516
19.9	Migration in the Seoul metropolitan area ('000)	517
India
20.1	Number of urban agglomerations by size class, India, 1901-1991	528
20.2	Acceleration of urban inequality in India, 1901-91	532

20.3	Percentage decadal variations of urban population in different classes of cities, India, 1961-91	532
20.4	Absorption of illiterate and semi-literate migrants in low-grade urban informal sectors, 1981 (lifetime migrants who moved for employment)	537
20.5	Economic structure of cities and nature of city-ward migration, 1981 census (males and females)	538
20.6	Percentage and volume of migration according to literacy level (0-5 years durations), 21 million cities, 1991	539
20.7	Major metropolitan growth in India, 1951-91	540
20.8	Indian urban future, 2000-2030	542
20.9	Core and suburbs in four largest metros of India, 1961-91	550
South Africa
21.1	Comparative urbanization tendencies in South Africa, 1996	571