The writing of this book would not have been possible without the cooperation and assistance of a number of friends and colleagues.

Both authors had discussions with a number of experts in fields examined in this book. Thus, André Sapir, of the European Commission and the Free University of Brussels, provided valuable insights into international monetary issues. Peter O'Brien, of Brussels, kindly agreed to discuss trade issues, as did a member of Pascal Lamy's cabinet in the European Commission. The authors are grateful to these experts for their insight.

At a particularly practical level, Ferdinando Riccardi, of the Agence Europe, Brussels graciously gave permission for the reproduction of EU trade articles in the appendices.

But, most importantly, the authors are very grateful to you, friends and relatives, who have been extraordinarily helpful. In Seattle, Jeremy Ballanger kindly procured a number of important documents and gave assistance with the preparation of the bibliography. Once again, Juan Molina, formerly of the university of St Thomas, meticulously prepared the index. Then, in a most professional manner, Peter Coffey's niece, Tracey, at the Cathedral Church of York (York Minster), with dedication and high professionalism typed the manuscript of this book.
