

---

Contents

---

List of contributors	viii
Introduction Manfred Neumann and Jürgen Weigand	1
1 Globalization and the natural limits of competition Stephen Martin	16
1 Introduction	16
2 The natures of competition	17
3 Actual rivalry and its limits	21
4 Potential rivalry and its limits	45
5 Globalization and the limits of competition as a policy	47
6 Conclusion	49
2 Efficiency versus market power through mergers Dennis C. Mueller	65
1 Introduction	65
2 Hypotheses about why mergers occur	66
3 The effects of mergers on share prices	69
4 The effects of mergers on profitability	75
5 Effects of mergers on market share and growth	76
6 Effects of mergers on profits and sales	78
7 Additional evidence regarding the effects of mergers on market share and growth	81
8 Policy implications	81
3 Small firms, innovation and competition David B. Audretsch	88
1 Introduction	88
2 The knowledge production function	91
3 The role of firm size	96
4 The industry context	103
5 The geographic context	104
6 The knowledge production function reconsidered	105
7 Conclusions	108

4	Trade policy and competition policy: conflict vs. mutual support	115
	Eric Bond
1	Introduction	115
2	The welfare effects of trade and competition policies	116
3	Trade and competition policy for small countries	117
4	Tariff and competition policy for a large country	122
5	The political economy of competition and trade policy	127
6	Conclusions	130
5	Financial services: consolidation and strategic positioning	133
	Arnoud Boot
1	Introduction	133
2	Fundamentals: the economics of banking	136
3	Scale and scope issues in banking	144
4	Scope as a strategic advantage	155
5	Competition, fragility and public policy	160
6	Value of alliances	161
7	Concluding remarks	165
6	Political economy of antitrust	173
	Charles Rowley and Anne Rathbone
1	Introduction	173
2	The perspective of neoclassical welfare economics	174
3	The University of Chicago perspective on antitrust policy	187
4	The perspective of the theory of interest group politics	189
5	The evidence	194
6	Conclusions	206
7	Dominance and monopolization	210
	Marcel Canoy, Patrick Rey and Eric van Damme
1	Dominance and competition policy	210
2	Regulation versus competition policy	218
3	Single-firm dominance and monopolization	221
4	Dominance through collusion	241
5	Dominance versus monopolization: a legal overview	254
6	Dominance versus substantial lessening of competition	264
7	Research agenda	280
8	Identifying antitrust markets	290
	Paul Geroski and Rachel Griffith
1	Why define markets?	290
2	The SSNIP test	291

3	Some complications	294
4	Assessing competitiveness	298
5	Some final reflections	301
6	Appendix: the simple algebra of SSNIP	304
9	Competition policy vs. regulation: administration vs. judiciary Christian Kirchner	306
1	Introduction	306
2	Competition policy and regulation: non-competing or competing institutional devices?	306
3	An institutional economics approach to competition policy and regulation	310
4	Competition policy and regulation during deregulation	313
5	Competition policy, regulation and the transformation of state monopolies	315
6	Concluding remarks	318
10	Competition policy in a globalized economy: from extraterritorial application to harmonization Jürgen Basedow	321
1	The worldwide boom of competition law and its harmonization	321
2	Is extraterritorial application sufficient?	322
3	Enforcement deficits	325
4	The competition of competition legislations	327
5	The feasibility of harmonization	329
6	The goals of harmonization	331
7	A pragmatic approach	332
	Index	339