Tables

2.1 Landmarks in the history of supervision  | 17
4.1 Banking problems in the OECD, 1980–2002  | 47
4.2 The structure of supervision in the Netherlands  | 49
9.1 Convergence to good practices  | 118
9.2 Areas of agreement and disagreement  | 121
9.3 Countries with explicit, limited deposit insurance systems  | 125
11.1 Arguments for supervision of financial conglomerates  | 173
11.2 Overview of risk types in economic capital models  | 182
11.3 The effects of two percentage point interest rate shocks on net interest income of domestic activities of banks and insurers (in billions of guilders)  | 191
11.4 The effects of two percentage point interest rate shocks on profits of banks, insurers and (imaginary) financial conglomerates  | 193
11.5 The revaluation effects of a two percentage point interest rate rise on the fair value balance sheets of banks, insurers and (pro forma) financial conglomerates  | 196
11.6 Overview of interest rate and share price change effects  | 198
11.7 Median correlation of stock prices between the sectors, by country, 1990–2000  | 200
11.8 Median correlation of stock prices of small firms between the sectors, by country, 1990–2000  | 201
11.9 Risk and return characteristics by country and industry  | 203
11.10 The effects of pro forma mergers, weighted by market capitalization  | 204
11.11 The effects of pro forma mergers of small firms, weighted by market capitalization  | 205
11.12 Aggregated balance sheets of Dutch banks and insurance firms (domestic, 2000)  | 209