Acknowledgements

This volume would not have existed without the generous efforts of many. First, we would like to thank the Washington, DC campus of the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS-DC) for its kind offer to allow us to use its conference facilities in holding our two-day conference. In particular, we would like to extend our appreciation to Dean Jessica Einhorn, Associate Dean John Harrington and Associate Dean Ted Baker. We also profited from the strong support of the Economics Department of SAIS-DC, especially from Professors Charles Pearson and Enzo Grilli and staff members Ms Patricia Calvano, Ms Rosa Bullock and Ms Robin Washington. At the SAIS-Bologna campus, we obtained invaluable help from the former Director of the Bologna Center, Dr Robert Evans, when the conference was being planned, and from the new Director, Ambassador Marisa Lino, during the manuscript preparation phase. Tremendous staff and editorial support were offered by Ms Barbara Wiza, Ms Brooke Neuman and Ms Yonit Golub.

Second, we received financial and logistical help, as well as much encouragement, from Michigan State University. While the list is long, special thanks go to President Peter McPherson, Dean Charles Greenleaf, Dean Marietta Baba and Chair of the Economics Department, Professor Rowena Pecchenino. On the academic side, all of Professor Kreinin’s colleagues – past and present – were generous with their assistance, but Professors Carl Davidson and Steven Matusz were particularly kind with their time and input at all phases of the project.

Finally, we would like to thank all the conference participants for making Professor Kreinin’s Festschrift not only a memorable academic event but also a wonderful personal tribute to this exceptional international economist. Moreover, many of Professor Kreinin’s colleagues who could not make the conference sent in warm messages of congratulations, often with interesting anecdotes. These were greatly appreciated and added much to the conference ambiance.
