

Acknowledgements

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the large number of people involved in the production of this collected volume. In addition to the authors and discussants, we wish to acknowledge the contributions of participants in the ECB/CEPR labour market workshop ‘What Explains the Patterns of Labour Supply in Europe?’, particularly ECB Executive Board Member Otmar Issing, for his introductory statement, and Gabriel Fagan, Francesco Mongelli and Philippe Moutot, for their support and valuable contributions to the workshop, including chairing a session. Thanks also go to the CEPR, to Per Anders Edin and Gilles Saint-Paul, and especially to the then labour economics programme director Juan Dolado. The ECB’s labour group provided enthusiastic support and input to the conference: Véronique Genre, Julián Messina, Ricardo Mestre, Julian Morgan, Gilles Mourre, Marcin Przybyla, Roberta Serafini and Jarkko Turunen. Invaluable assistance in the planning and organization of the workshop was provided by Birgitte Ilving and Janet Seabrook. Finally, and perhaps most importantly, we would like to thank our assistant editor, Annette Hochberger, whose hard work and attention to detail has made this volume possible.