Contributors

Suma Athreye is a Senior Lecturer in Economics at the Faculty of Social Sciences at the Open University, UK. Her research interests include public policy towards technological and industrial development, clustering and innovation, hi-tech entrepreneurship, development of the software industry and outsourcing. She has published extensively in all these areas.

Govindasamy Balatchandirane is a faculty member in the Department of East Asian Studies, University of Delhi, India. He is involved in several international research projects on information communication technology (ICT), higher education, and economic development of India and its potential transferability to East Asia. He has been a visiting faculty at Kanazawa University and Yokohama National University, Japan.

Nagarajan Dayasindhu is a Senior Research Associate, Software Engineering Technology Labs with Infosys Technologies Ltd, Bangalore, India. His research interests include information technology (IT) outsourcing strategies and competitiveness in the IT services industry. His papers have been published in leading journals and conferences.

Kingsley E. Haynes is Dean of the School of Public Policy and University Professor of Public Policy at George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia. His research activity is in the area of infrastructure investment and economic development. He has had extensive experience in managing projects in energy, water resources, telecommunications and transportation in the USA, Canada, Brazil, Egypt, Jordan, Sudan and Malaysia.

Ron Hira is Assistant Professor of Public Policy at the Rochester Institute of Technology in Rochester, NY, where he specializes in technology policy and offshore outsourcing. He is the author of Outsourcing America published by the American Management Association, and is Vice-President of Career Activities for the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (USA). He is also a licensed professional engineer.

Mary Mathew is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Management Studies, Indian Institute of Science (IISc), Bangalore, India. She is also the Associate Faculty of the Intellectual Property Cell and Center for Product Design and Manufacturing, IISc and the resource executive for the Society for Innovation Development, IISc. Her various research projects on ICT-related issues have been sponsored by India’s Ministry of Science and Technology, Ministry of Communications and IT and the European Commission, Brussels.

Stanley Nollen is Professor of International Business at the Georgetown University McDonough School of Business in Washington, DC. His research interests center on the performance of firms in the IT industry in India and the experiences of firms in the transition economies of central Europe. He was previously a Fulbright scholar in Delhi and a visiting professor at the London School of Economics and Antwerp University.

Rupa Ranganathan works with the Operations Evaluation Department at the World Bank. She holds a Bachelors in Political Science from Allegheny College and a Masters in Public Policy from George Mason University. She has been working on a number of issues dealing with economic development including the impact of ICT on development.

Kavil Ramachandran is a Professor of Entrepreneurship and Strategy at the Indian School of Business (ISB), Hyderabad, India. His research is centered on entrepreneurship, knowledge clusters and growth strategies of Indian firms. He is also the head of the ISB K-Hub, a semi-virtual business accelerator for supporting new ventures in India.

Sougata Ray is an Associate Professor of Strategy at the Indian Institute of Management, Calcutta, India. His research interests include strategic management, knowledge clusters, competitive strategies and strategic alliances of Indian firms. He is the recipient of several awards for research and teaching and consults with large Indian organizations on various aspects of corporate strategy.

Maria Elena Salazar is a Ph.D. candidate in the School of Public Policy at George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia, USA. Her research interests focus on local economic development, specifically in Mexico and other developing countries.

Cherian Samuel works as a Monitoring and Evaluation specialist for the World Bank in Washington, DC, and has been with the Bank Group for the past ten years. His research interests include ICT and economic development, structural change, corporate governance and investment climate issues.

Aparna Sawhney is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Economics and Social Sciences at the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore and is a consultant for trade and environmental studies at the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations in New Delhi. Her teaching and research interests are in the areas of trade, environment, development and the World Trade Organization.

Vasanthi Srinivasan is an Assistant Professor in the area of Organizational Behavior and Human Resources Management at the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore. Her research interests are in careers, international human resources management and team-based organizations. Her teaching, consulting and research have largely focused on the software industry in India.

Gita Surie is a Senior Fellow at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and Assistant Professor at Adelphi University, USA. Her current research focuses on innovation, entrepreneurship and multinational corporations.

Roger R. Stough holds the NOVA Endowed Chair and is a Professor of Public Policy at George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia. He directs the Mason Enterprise Center and is Associate Dean for Research in the School of Public Policy. He has published 15 books and many journal articles in the fields of economic development and transport policy.

Tojo Thatchenkery is an Associate Professor at the School of Public Policy, George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia, USA. His research interests include ICT and economic development of South Asian countries, social capital and economic advancement of ethnic groups, and organizational mobility of Asian Americans in US organizations.