

Acknowledgements

My overwhelming debt is to the European Commission, Fifth Framework Programme, for financially supporting the ARID Cluster of projects and to the responsible scientific officer of the Commission, Dr Panagiotis Balabanis, for his enthusiasm, support and encouragement throughout the years of the interdisciplinary research effort that was conducted within the ARID Cluster.

I am also indebted to my co-editors (the coordinators of the individual projects of the ARID Cluster) and all the contributing authors of this book, for their devotion to the completion of this book in a relative short time. I am also grateful to every single one of the 80 researchers working for the ARID Cluster, as well as the external scientific panel of the cluster, Professor Evan Vlachos, Professor Bernard Barraqué and Iacovos Iacovides, for providing us with feedback from many scientific disciplines, as well as field experiences, that enriched our way of thinking about integrated and sustainable water resources management and broadened our understanding of the scientific and policy issues involved in the implementation of the EU Water Framework Directive.

I also wish to thank my publisher, Edward Elgar Publishing, whose staff was enthusiastic about this project from the beginning. I owe special thanks to Catherine Elgar, my commissioning editor.

Finally a special debt is owed to my partner, family and friends, who understand my enthusiasm (and time devoted) to working towards a better management of the European waters.
