

Editors

---

Susanne Mundschenk is Research Fellow at the Center for European Integration Studies (ZEI) of the University of Bonn. Previously she has worked for the Association for the Monetary Union of Europe based in Paris. She is currently research scholar at the European Institute of the London School of Economics. Her research interests are European monetary integration, public finances, economic growth and governance in the EU. She conducted research projects for the European Commission, the German Ministry of Labour and Ministry of Finance as well as the World Economic Forum. Her current research is on structural change and growth in EU countries.

Michael H. Stierle is Economist at the European Commission, Directorate General Economic and Financial Affairs. He studied economics at Trier University and UNAM, Mexico City and holds a PhD from Speyer University. He has worked in economic departments in the private financial sector as well as in academic research. He is a founding member and Chairman of the International Network for Economic Research (INFER) since 1998. His policy-oriented research is mostly concentrated on international economics, financial markets, growth and business cycles as well as regional economics.

Ulrike Stierle-von Schütz holds a Diploma in Economics from Trier University. Currently she is working as research assistant at the RWTH Aachen University, Department of Public Economics. Her main fields of expertise are economic integration, regional economics and fiscal federalism. She is co-ordinator of the INFER Working Group Growth and Business Cycles and elected INFER board member.

Iulia Traistaru is Senior Researcher at the Center for European Integration Studies (ZEI) of the University of Bonn. Her key areas of expertise include the economics of European integration, international trade, open economy macroeconomics, intra-national macroeconomics, and applied econometrics. She is currently scientific co-ordinator of the research program at ZEI on 'European Integration, Structural Change and Adjustment to Shocks' which includes research projects, policy advice and the co-ordination of a European network of researchers and policy makers. She has been a consultant to the European Commission, European Central Bank, World Bank, Inter-American Development Bank, and the World Economic Forum.