

Figures

---

3.1.	Amount of money spent on job training 2000–2001	38
3.2.	Firm size and amount of money spent on job training in 2000–2001	39
3.3.	Firm size and amount of money spent on job training per worker in 2000–2001	39
3.4.	How training is provided in-house	40
3.5.	Types of training provided for position that did not require a college degree	40
3.6.	High school degree requirement	42
3.7.	Previous experience	43
3.8.	Previous training or skill certification	43
3.9.	Employees' daily tasks	44
3.10.	Work with other companies to develop training programs	45
3.11.	Work with community organizations over last two years	46
3.12.	Employer program involvement	47
4.1.	Community colleges in census regions	62
4.2.	County population	62
4.3.	Current mix of on-site and traditional classroom instruction	64
4.4.	Custom training programs to employees	67
4.5.	Firms contracted for customized courses	67
4.6.	Employees trained in customized courses	68
4.7.	Customized course curriculum development	68
4.8.	Preferred delivery format for training	69
4.9.	Most important constraint to employer training	69
4.10.	Initiation of collaboration with community-based organizations	71
4.11.	Chief advantage of collaboration with community-based organizations	71
4.12.	Most commonly offered programs delivered with community-based organizations	72
4.13.	Initiation of consortium of employers	72
4.14.	Chief advantage of consortiums	73
4.15.	Most commonly offered programs to groups or consortiums	74