Tables

2.1 Examples of dreams 18
2.2 Types of entrepreneurs and social contribution 22
2.3 Implementation of EPM through Sebrae in the state of Paraná, Brazil, 2002–04 31
4.1 Characteristics of Dutch entrepreneurs 65
4.2 Short indication of business plans produced for ‘Becoming an entrepreneur’ 68
4.3 A framework for evaluating entrepreneurship programs for non-business students, applied to two Dutch cases 73
5.1 Spontaneous versus induced corporate entrepreneurship 86
6.1 Some example programmes 116
7.1 Start-semester and end-semester intentions to start own business 125
7.2 Post-hoc results and mean (s.d.) scores for intention-to-start-own-business groups on belief that one has sufficient knowledge to run one’s own business 126
8.1 CRÉACTIV’NANTES workshop schedule 138
10.1 Three standard questions asked during face-to-face interviews 174
10.2 Six standard questions included in the expert questionnaire 175
10.3 Opinion of Belgian key informants with respect to education 176
11.1 Participants in certification program by province and territory 193
13.1 Graduates from Bodø Graduate School of Business, 1987–2004 213
13.2 Response rates for surveys mailed in March every second year from 1995 to 2003 214
13.3 Business start-ups and business ownership among business graduates 215
14.1 Questions in the evaluation planning process 231
14.2 Six-steps model of evaluation 232
14.3 CIRO model 234
17.1 Regression upon intention 275
17.2 Regression on attitude toward starting a business 276
17.3 Regression on perceived self-efficacy for starting a business 277