Bibliography

Alexandraki, K. and H. P. Lankes, (2004), ‘The impact of preference erosion on middle-income developing countries’, International Monetary Fund working paper no. WP/04/169, September, Washington, DC.

Balassa, B (1971), The Structure of Protection in Developing Countries, Baltimore, MD: The Johns Hopkins University Press.

Bourguignon, F (1999), ‘Absolute poverty, relative deprivation and social exclusion’, paper presented at the workshop World Development Report, organized by the
Bibliography

Deutsche Stiftung fur Internationale Entwicklung, 2–3 February, Berlin.

Chen, S. and M. Ravallion (2004), ‘How have the world’s poorest fared since the early 1980s?’, World Bank, accessed 20 April at www.worldbank.org/research/povmonitor/MartinPapers/How_have_the_poorest_fared_since_the_early_1980s.pdf.

Ford School of Public Policy discussion paper no. 498, 13 August, Ann Arbor, MI.

The evolving global trade architecture

Finance and Development, (March), 14–18.
International Monetary Fund (IMF) (2002), World Economic Outlook: Trade and Finance, September, Washington, DC.
International Monetary Fund (IMF) (2003), World Economic Outlook, April, Washington, DC: IMF.
International Monetary Fund (IMF) (2006), ‘Integrating poor countries into the world trading system’, economic issues series no. 37, Washington, DC.
Narlikar, A. (2005), ‘WTO institutional reforms: a role for G-20 leaders?’, paper presented at a conference on The Agricultural Subsidies and the WTO organized by the Center for International Governance Innovation, 8–9 June, Waterloo, ON, Canada.

Office of the United States Trade Representative (2001), ‘USTR Zoelick says world has chosen path of hope, openness, development and growth’, press release, 14 November.

Spinanger, D. (2003), ‘Beyond eternity: what will happen when textiles and clothing

Stiglitz, J. E. (1999a), ‘Two principles for the next round: or how to bring developing countries in from the cold’, mimeo, 21 September, Washington, DC.

World Trade Organization (WTO) (2005c), ‘Developmental aspects of the Doha Round