Acknowledgements

In undertaking the research and writing of this book we have benefited from useful discussion and comments from Tim Besley, Peter Boettke, Robin Burgess, Tyler Cowen, James Hines, Jesse Shapiro, Andre Shleifer, Russell Sobel, Bob Subrick, and Richard Wagner. We would also like to thank Alan Sturmer at Edward Elgar for his continued patience and assistance.

Our research on the role of media, institutional change, and economic development has spanned several years. Over that time we have published several papers in academic journals related to the topic of this book. We draw from the ideas in these papers, although this book reflects the fact that our thinking on this topic has evolved since the publication of many of these articles.

We would also like to thank the Mercatus Center at George Mason University for its generous financial support of this research. We also acknowledge the financial support of the STICERD Centre at the London School of Economics, where we visited as the F.A. Hayek Fellows, as well as financial support from West Virginia University and George Mason University.
