Contributors

Silke Adam is Senior Researcher at the Department of Communication Science at the University of Hohenheim (Germany). She studied communication science at the University of Hohenheim (Diplom) and at Boston University, USA (MSc) and participated in summer schools on network analysis (Tilburg, Constance, Lisbon). Recent publications include: Symbolische Netzwerke in Europa (Cologne: Halem, 2007); ‘Domestic adaptations of Europe’ (International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 2007); ‘Comparative analysis of policy networks in Western Europe’ (with Hanspeter Kriesi and Margit Jochum, Journal of European Public Policy, 2006). E-mail: adamsilk@uni-hohenheim.de

Didier Chabanet is Research Fellow at Ecole Nationale des Travaux Publics de l’Etat, and Associate Research Fellow at Ecole Normale Supérieure Lettres et Sciences Humaines in Lyon, France. He is also currently Fernand Brandel Senior Research Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy. He has established himself as a well-known international scholar in the field of social movements, collective action and European integration. He has extensively advanced research and knowledge on the mobilization of the unemployed. His books include European Governance and Democracy. Power and Protest in the EU (with Richard Balme, Lanham, Rowman and Littlefield, 2008). E-mail: didierchabanet@hotmail.com

Deborah Cook is a Fast Streamer at the Welsh Assembly Government, and was a researcher in the Scottish Executive’s International and Europe Social Research Team. She completed her doctorate from the University of Glamorgan, Wales, on the role of civil society in Wales in European Union policy making in 2006. Recent publications include: ‘Wales and the European Convention: any scope for civil society?’ (Contemporary Wales 19(1), 2007) and Participation and engagement in politics and policy making: Building a bridge between Europe and its citizens’ Evidence review, papers One and Three (with Kesi Mahendran, Edinburgh Scottish Executive, 2007). Email: Deborah.Cook@wales.gsi.gov.uk

Matthias Freise is a Research Associate at the Institute of Political Science, University of Münster (Germany) where he heads the research group European Civil Society and Multilevel Governance in co-operation with Annette Zimmer. His fields of research are European studies, civil society theory and third sector research. Recent publications include European civil society (Baden-Baden: Nomos, forthcoming 2008). E-Mail: freisem@uni-muenster.de

Marco Giugni is a researcher and teacher at the Department of Political Science, University of Geneva (Switzerland). He has authored or co-authored several books and articles on social movements and contentious politics. He has directed and collaborated in a number of comparative projects on topics relating to social movements and contentious politics, social exclusion, and social and political integration. His research interests include: social movements and collective action, immigration and ethnic relations, unemployment and social exclusion. E-mail: marco.giugni@politic.unige.ch

Marc Hooghe is Associate Professor of Political Science at the Catholic University of Leuven (Belgium), and Visiting Professor at the Universities of Lille and Darmstadt. He has published mainly on social capital, political participation and political socialisation. Recently, his work has appeared in the European Journal of Political Research, British Journal of Political Science, Scandinavian Political Studies and Canadian Journal of Political Science. He is president of the Belgian Political Science Association and editor of Acta Politica. Email: Marc.Hooghe@soc.kuleuven.be

Margit Jochum works as a scientific collaborator at the Centre for Legislative Studies, Techniques and Evaluations (CETEL), Faculty of Law, University of Geneva (Switzerland). Her current research focuses in particular on the pre-parliamentary stages of the legislative process and on political communication in the field of agricultural policy. She is a PhD candidate in comparative politics at the Department of Political Science of the University of Zurich (Switzerland). She previously worked at this same institution as a research assistant in the Europub.com project. E-mail: margit.jochum@droit.unige.ch

Hanspeter Kriesi holds the Chair in Comparative Politics at the Department of Political Science of the University of Zurich (Switzerland). Previously, he has taught at the universities of Amsterdam and Geneva. He is a specialist in Swiss direct democracy, but his wide-ranging research interests also include the study of social movements, political parties and interest groups, public opinion, the public sphere and the media. He has recently co-edited The Blackwell companion to social movements (together with David Snow and Sarah Soule; Oxford: Blackwell, 2004). His books include Direct democratic choice: The Swiss experience (Lanham: Lexington, 2005). He is now the Director of a Swiss national research programme on ‘Challenges to democracy in the 21st century’. E-mail: hanspeter.kriesi@ipz.uzh.ch
Cécile Leconte earned her PhD in political science at Sciences Po Paris (France) and the University of Innsbruck (Austria) in 2003. In 2004 she was a visiting scholar at the Minda de Gunzburg Center for European Studies, Harvard University, US. She is Senior Lecturer in European Politics at the Lille Institute of Political Studies, where she heads the European studies programme, and at Sciences Po Paris. She is also a researcher at the CNRS Lille Centre for Politics and Administration and associate researcher at the Centre d’Etudes Européennes (Sciences Po Paris). Recent publications include L’Europe face au défi populiste (Paris: Presses Universitaires de France, 2005; preface by Jacques Delors). E-mail: cecile.leconte@iep.univ-lille2.fr

Christine Mahoney is Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at Syracuse University (United States). Her book Brussels vs the beltway: advocacy in the United States and the European Union is forthcoming (Washington: Georgetown University Press, 2008). She has also published in European Union Politics, the Journal of Public Policy and the Journal of European Public Policy, as well as a number of edited volumes. Her work has been supported by a Postdoctoral Fellowship at Syracuse University’s European Union Center of Excellence, a Fulbright Fellowship to the European Union, a Martz Award and an RGSO Fellowship. She has been an affiliated researcher at the Free University of Brussels and a visiting junior scholar at Oxford University. E-mail: chmahone@maxwell.syr.edu

William A. Maloney is Professor of Politics in the School of Geography, Politics and Sociology, University of Newcastle upon Tyne (United Kingdom) and in 2004 was elected an Official Fellow of the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES), Germany. His main research interests are in the areas of interest group politics (internal and external dynamics), social capital and (non-)participation. His recent publications include Social capital and associations in European democracies (edited with Sigrid Rossteutscher, London: Routledge, 2006) and Interest groups and the democratic process: Enhancing participation? (with Grant Jordan, Basingstoke: Palgrave, 2007). E-mail: william.maloney@ncl.ac.uk

Cristina Elena Parau is a British Academy Postdoctoral Fellow at the European Institute, London School of Economics (United Kingdom). Her research focuses on the making of independent judiciaries in Eastern Europe. In 2007 she earned a doctorate from the Government Department of the London School of Economics for her thesis on the EU’s impact on the domestic opportunity structures of civil society and the state in the accession country of Romania. Between 2002 and 2007 she held research posts at Westminster University, Queen Mary University of London and the London School of Economics. E-mail: C.Parau@lse.ac.uk
Susan Stewart is a Research Fellow in the research unit on Russia and the CIS at the German Institute for International and Security Affairs in Berlin. She was previously a lecturer at the Faculty of Social Sciences of the University of Mannheim (Germany), as well as a research associate at the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES). Her recent publications on democracy promotion include ‘EU democracy promotion in the Western Balkans’ (in Michèle Knodt and Annette Jünemann (eds), The EU as an external democracy promoter, Baden-Baden: Nomos, 2007).

E-mail: susan.stewart@swp-berlin.org

Jan W. van Deth is Professor of Political Science and International Comparative Social Research at the University of Mannheim (Germany). He was Director of the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES) and is a Corresponding Member of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was convenor of the international network ‘Citizenship, Involvement, Democracy’ (CID) of the European Science Foundation and is national coordinator of the German team for the European Social Survey. His recent publications include Foundations of comparative politics (with Kenneth Newton, Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005). E-mail: jvdeth@uni-mannheim.de

Jerry Wittmeier Bains holds a juris doctor from the University of Miami and a Master’s in Political Theory from the London School of Economics. He is an independent researcher, and in his spare time does philosophy in the classical mould. Email: j.bains-alumni@lse.ac.uk

Annette Zimmer is Professor of Social Policy and Comparative Politics at the University of Münster (Germany). She was affiliated with the Program on Nonprofit Organizations at Yale University (USA), served as the DAAD Visiting Professor at the University of Toronto (Canada), and coordinated the EU-funded Research and Training Network ‘Women in European Universities’. She serves on the Board of the German Political Science Association and on the Advisory Board of the German Volunteer Survey. Recent publications include Gendered career trajectories in academia in cross-national perspective (with Renate Siemienska, Warsaw: Scholar 2007) and Future of civil society (with Eckhard Priller, Wiesbaden: VS Verlag, 2004). E-Mail: zimmmean@uni-muenster.de