

Tables

1.1	CSR instruments and distributed governance capacities	9
1.2	CSR issues and sectors studied	21
3.1	Factors explaining CSR effects	45
5.1	Survey respondents	66
6.1	Fish stocks sourced from and percentage of sales	87
7.1	CSR instruments most frequently used by respondents	100
8.1	CSR instruments used, known and planned to be implemented by SMEs	115
10.1	CSR output: features of the instruments adhered to by Hydro and Shell	141
10.2	CSR outcome of instrument adherence in Hydro and Shell	142
10.3	CSR output, outcome and impact in Hydro and Shell	144
10.4	Explanations to CSR output, outcome and impact	154
11.1	CSR output, outcome and impact in the three company cases	163
11.2	Assessment of instruments' conduciveness to impact	169
11.3	Influence of different explanatory factors on instrument choice or development (CSR output)	176
11.4	Influence of different explanatory factors on changes in sourcing practices and product portfolios (CSR outcome)	185
12.1	Impact assessment of CSR for gender equality in Caja Madrid and Dexia Group	203
12.2	Factors driving the effective implementation of CSR	212
13.1	CSR output, outcome and impact for the banks	226
13.2	Assessment of voluntary instruments' conduciveness to impact for countering corruption	229
15.1	The contribution of CSR to achieving EU policy goals for mitigating climate change	259
15.2	The contribution of CSR to achieving EU policy goals for sustainable fisheries	260
15.3	The contribution of CSR to achieving EU policy goals for gender equality	264
15.4	The contribution of CSR to achieving EU policy goals for countering bribery and money laundering	266
16.1	Comparison of the two companies' CSR processes	285

17.1	Factors influencing the potential for and limits of CSR impact	295
17.2	Issue-related challenges for creating sustainability impact through CSR	300