Contributors

George A. Bermann is Jean Monnet Professor of EU law at Columbia Law School (New York), where he directs the European Legal Studies Center. He is a faculty member of College d’Europe (Bruges, Belgium) and the Master of Law and Globalization of the University of Paris I and the Institut des Sciences of Politiques. He is current president of the Academie Internationale de Droit Comparé and co-editor-in-chief of the American Journal of Comparative Law. He is the principal editor of the ABA Guide to European Administrative Law (2008), as well as co-author of European Union Law: Cases and Materials (West Pub.).

Christopher H. Bovis JD, MPhil, LLM, FRSA is Professor of Law and H.K. Bevan Chair in Law at the Law School of the University of Hull. He has been Jean Monnet Chair in European and Business Law at Lancashire Law School, University of Central Lancashire; Senior Visiting Research Fellow at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies of the University of London; Visiting Professor, University of Toronto; Visiting Professor of European Law, University of Montreal; Visiting Professor of European Business Law, Humboldt Universität zu Berlin; Visiting Fellow, University of Cambridge; Visiting Professor of Trade and Commerce, Queen’s University of Belfast; Visiting Professor of European Law at the University of Lisbon, Portugal; Deputy Director of the Institute of European Public Law at the University of Hull. His fields of expertise are in European Union law, business law, anti-trust, and international trade law. He is Editor-in-Chief of the European Public Private Partnerships Law Review, published by Lexxion. He is Contributing Editor of the Encyclopedia of Competition Law, published by Sweet and Maxwell. He has served on the editorial board of legal journals such as European Public Law, Company Lawyer, Amicus Curiae and International Corporate Law.

Edoardo Chiti is an Associate Professor of European Union Law at the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of La Tuscia. His main publications are in the field of European administrative law. He is currently researching on the relations between national, European and global administrative law.
Paul Craig is Professor of English Law, St John’s College Oxford. His principal research interests are administrative law, both domestic and EU, constitutional law and EU law.

Michelle Everson is Professor of European Law at Birkbeck College, University of London. She researches and publishes widely in the fields of European law, regulatory law, administrative and constitutional law and on the theory and practice of citizenship.

Herwig C.H. Hofmann is Professor of European and transnational public law and Director of the Centre for European Law at the University of Luxembourg. His teaching and research focus on European constitutional, administrative and regulatory law, as well as international trade and comparative public law. Prior to joining the faculty of Law, Economics and Finance of the University of Luxembourg, he was a member of the faculty of Trinity College, School of Law, Dublin, Ireland and has lectured at various universities and institutions in Europe and in the USA.

Joana Mendes is currently a PhD candidate at the European University Institute, Florence, where she is developing her research on ‘Rights of participation in European administrative law’. She is also a lecturer in the Environmental Research Centre of the Law School of the University of Coimbra (CEDOUA).

Hanns Peter Nehl has worked as a legal secretary in the Chambers of Austrian Judge Josef Azizi at the Court of First Instance of the European Communities since 2004. Previously, he worked in the Directorate-General for Competition of the European Commission as well as in the Brussels office of former German law firm Gaedertz Rechtsanwälte. He obtained his doctoral degree in 2001 at the University of Hamburg. He is also an alumnus of the European University Institute in Florence (LL.M. 1996–7) as well as of the Université d’Aix-Marseille III (D.E.A. de droit communautaire 1991–2). His main fields of interest are EC competition law and European constitutional and administrative law in general. His main publications include Principles of Administrative Procedure in EC Law, Oxford (Hart Publishing), 1999 and Europäisches Verwaltungsverfahren und Gemeinschaftsverfassung, Berlin (Duncker & Humblot), 2002.

Christine Neuhold is Associate Professor of European Governance within the Department of Political Science and Director of the Bachelor Programme of European Studies of the University of Maastricht. She has studied political science at the University of Vienna and has previously worked at the European Institute of Public Administration in Maastricht.
and at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Vienna. Her research interests include the role of committees within the system of multi-level governance and the controlling powers of national parliaments within the system of multi-level governance.

Gerard C. Rowe is Professor of Public, Administrative, Environmental and Local Government Law, Comparative Law and Economic Analysis of Law at the Europa-Universität Viadrina Frankfurt (Oder) (Germany).

Manuel Szapiro is Professor at the College of Europe in Bruges and Maîtres de Conférences/Director of Studies at the Institut d’Etudes Politiques de Paris (Sciences Po). He is former Deputy Head of the Unit for Institutional Affairs in the European Commission Secretariat-General. His main research interests are the European Commission, comitology, expert groups, EU agencies, international negotiations, EU administration and policy-making.

Alexander H. Türk is Senior Lecturer in Law at King’s College London. He is Director of the LLM Programme of the School of Law and Director of the Postgraduate Diploma in EU Law by Distance Learning. He is also visiting lecturer for the London Law Consortium and General Editor of EU Tracker. His research interests cover European constitutional and administrative law, in particular comitology, as well as comparative constitutional and administrative law.